House in Stormy Session, Coolidge Policy Rapped, Kellogg Before Senate

OPPOSITION TO "BIG STICK" OF U. S. INCREASES

Secretary of State Explains Reasons for Action Behind Closed Doors

UTMOST SECRECY

Insists on Own Stenographer Taking Record Before Committee

Washington, Jan. 12—Strong opposition to the administration's "big stick" policy in Central America was uncovered on both sides of the capitol today.

While Secretary of State Kellogg behind closed doors, explained to the senate committee on foreign relations the reasons for the concentration of 15 warships and 5,000 bluejackets in the Caribbean, the house committees on foreign affairs staged a quarrel-some open session at which the Coolidge-Kellogg policy was denounced and defended.

Kellogg surrounded his appearance before the senate committee with unusual precautions of secrecy. He insisted upon the regular committee stenographer being dispensed with, and substituted one of his own, from the state department. He then delivered a long statement of the events leading up to the establishment of a virtual protectorate over Nicaragua, and the president's warning to Mexico to "keep hands off" in that republic. He had not rescinded the state when the senate convened at noon and the session continued long after the noon hour.

The general tenor of Kellogg's explanation paralleled closely the message sent to congress Monday by President Coolidge, in which he said the administration's policy in Nicaragua was necessary to protect American interests, the canal rights and to support "established order" south of the Rio Grande.

The secretary was in a brittle mood when he went to the capitol to face his senatorial critics. He was annoyed by the presence of a large group of photographers and move men outside the committee doors.

Point Their Questions

"What is this?" he exclaimed. "Is this a show or is this serious business."

The senators listened attentively as the secretary delivered his long statement and made notes which later turned into pointed questions. The session of the house committee was attended by less secrecy and more forceful expression of opinion. It met to consider three resolutions, one, by Representative Hardleston, Democrat, of Alabama, demanding withdrawal of marines from Nicaragua; two, by Representative McSwain, Democrat, of

HINTS POLITICAL FIGHT IS CAUSE OF ADDED TAX

Defense Attorney Brings Mellon, Couzens Enmity into Tax Collection Case

Detroit, Jan. 12—The good faith of the government in adding a $34,000,000 tax to the fees already paid by former stockholders of the Ford Motor Car Co. was questioned by the defense at the tax hearing today.

Joseph H. Davies, of the defense counsel, in an address at the opening of the session, paved the way for bringing in the Couzens-Mellon dispute which was on at the time the additional tax was levied. Without mentioning Senator James Couzens or Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, Davies hinted at the row between these two as the reason the defense will give for the government's extra tax.

TRAINS MUST STOP

Ruling Follows Accident That Cost Eight Lives

Washington, Jan. 12—All Central Railroad of New Jersey trains will be brought to a stop before crossing the tracks of the Lehigh Valley at Bethlehem, Pa., the Interstate Commerce Commission was advised today.

This action was taken upon recommendation of the commission as a result of the accident at Bethlehem last September in which eight were killed and 40 injured.

TAKE AUTO WHEELS

Stolen Auto Recovered But Thieves Remove Three Wheels

Thomas Longberry, 895 York-st, reported to police last night that his automobile was stolen between 7 and 9 o'clock from its parking place on E. Church-st near State-st. This morning the car was found at Lincoln Park by one of the police.

The thieves had abandoned the car in the park after removing and carrying away three of its wheels. The machine is a 1925 model Chevrolet.

NEW PLANT TO START WORK IN CITY NEXT WEEK

Gardner Tap & Die Co., Cleveland, Completing Plans To Open Here

The Gardner Tap & Die Co., which is moving to this city from Cleveland, will be operating in its factory here by the latter part of next week, according to plans announced today by John M. Gardner, president of the company, who is here making final moving arrangements and attending to installation of machinery at the local plant.

The office in Cleveland will be closed Saturday, Mr. Gardner states, and the last shipment of the company's equipment will be made at that time. This shipment will consist of the office furniture and supplies.

Four carloads of machinery have already arrived here and this equipment is now in place at the factory building on Lincoln av, formerly occupied by the Studebaker-Wolff Rubber Co. Transfer of the machinery will be completed this week, four additional carloads making up the final shipments.

Homes have been purchased or rented by employes who are now making preparations for moving. The company's working force will consist of about 60 employes at the beginning of operations here.

PAT FINALLY DRAWS LIFE TERM SENTENCE

Motion for New Trial Overruled; Attorney To Appeal Case to Higher Court

Canton, Jan. 12—Patrick E. McDermott, convicted of slaying Dee R. Mellett, Canton publisher on July 16, last, was today sentenced by Judge E. W. Diehl in common pleas court to life imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary without hope of pardon or parole.

E. L. Mills, counsel for McDermott, made a motion for a new trial, which was overruled by Judge Diehl. Mills gave notice that he would appeal the verdict of Pat's guilt to a higher court. He has 40 days from today in which to file an appeal.

MEXICO CHURCH WAR INTENSE; REPORT DEATHS

Bishop Diaz, Whereabouts Unknown, Is Charged with Inspiring Rebels

ORDERED EXPELLED

Three Small Mexican Towns Recaptured from Calles' Forces

Mexico City, Jan. 12—With orders for summary executions of rebels, General Jose Escobar has been placed in command of the federal forces assigned to suppress the rebels, who are active in northern and central Mexico, fighting under banners inscribed, "Viva Christ, the King."

Rene Capistran Garza, who has been active on the border.

Meanwhile a statement has been issued from the presidential palace charging that religious outbreaks have been inspired by Bishop Diaz in the Catholic episcopate under the leadership of Bishop Diaz and

The statement of rebel activities issued from the presidential palace shows that the casualties among the rebels have been nearly a hundred, with the federal casualties less than a quarter as great.

General Alvarez, chief of staff for President Calles, announced that the president had ordered the expulsion of Bishop Diaz and he had been taken to the border. The whereabouts of Bishop Diaz is still in question, the government indicating that he would be deported from Vera Cruz while reports to Catholic headquarters state that he has been taken to Oaxaca.

Admits Early Successes

That the rebels had early successes in towns where there were small garrisons was admitted by General Alvarez, but he declared that the government now has the upper hand and that only in Durango do the rebels continue their operations.

Reports today stated that the rebels under the leadership of two priests had lost 22 in a clash at San Luis, after they had made attacks in Leon and San Juan Jaimeo.

The Chihuahua rebels under the command of Nicholas Fernandez, have been defeated in a clash with the fed-

ATTACK FOLLOWS PARTY, POLICE HUNT FOR MEN

Girl Tells Story of Taking Drinks from Friends; One Man Arrested

New York, Jan. 12—Jean Moore, a pretty 23-year-old blonde who came to New York from St. Mary's, a suburb of Cleveland, to make a name for herself in the metropolis, was recovering in the Florence Crittenden home today from a fiendish attack while police sought the men who assaulted her.

One of them has already been arrested, according to the authorities, Michael Sheehan, was held without bail, and three more men are being sought, Jean told the story to Magistrate Jean Norris.

Took Two Drinks

"I had never taken a drink before," she said. "He gave me two and they made me all wobbly. By and by I woke up in a billiard room and all the men had gone."

Jean had obtained a job dancing in a night club soon she came to New York. There she met Sheehan, she said, and he promised to get her a better place. The drinks and the alleged attack followed. Magistrate Norris said it was the most outrageous crime that had ever come before her.

The girl had been living with relatives in Newark, N. J.

$480,000 IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE RECOMMENDED

Xenia, Jan. 12—Judge E. P. Mathias, of the supreme court and chairman of the committee, has announced following a survey here that he will recommend improvements at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans Home which will cost $480,000.

The entire committee is favorable to that action, he said.

A new hospital and four new cottages, a nursery and improvements in present buildings will be recommended.

Mystery Surrounds Attack On Italian in West Marion By Unidentified Assailant

Pete Gesephume, 35, Hornell Ice Co. Employe, Struck Over Head with Club on Senate-St; Victim Stumbles into Hotel for Assistance

Pete Gesephume, 35, an Italian employed by the Hornell Ice Co. here, was attacked by an unidentified assailant on Senate-st, in the West Side residence district, about 7 o'clock last night and narrowly escaped death in the assault.

The assailant, believed to be an Italian with whom Gesephume had trouble recently, was armed with a club with which he beat his victim over the head, coming out from a hiding place along Senate-st and waylaying Gesephume.

The assault victim recovered partial consciousness after a few minutes and staggered into the Iroquois Hotel in search of assistance. Still dazed, Gesephume attacked that his assailant had used a gun in the attack.

"I have been shot five times," he declared as he lunged into the hotel lobby.

Notify Police

Police were notified and upon arriving at the Iroquois immediately summoned a physician, who examined the injured man and found that there were no gunshot wounds.

Several stitches were necessary to close two of the cuts in Gesephume's head and there were a number of other smaller lacerations.

Owing on advice from the physician, the police had Gesephume taken to the City Hospital, where he was given attention during the night. Today he had recovered sufficiently to go to the hotel house in which he lives in the East railroad yards.

Gesephume is able to talk little except in his native language and he was so completely dazed as a result of the assault that he could give the police only scant information regarding the attack.

TOLEDO FIREBUG ACTIVE AGAIN; LOSS $250,000

Warehouse Is Set Ablaze and Completely Destroyed; Million Loss in Two Months

Toledo, Jan. 12—Toledo's pyromaniac plied his torch again today, causing damage estimated at $250,000 and bringing total losses attributed to the firebug of nearly $1,500,000 during the last 60 days.

Today's blaze occurred at the Moreton Storage Company's warehouse, where the flames had gained such headway before discovery that lives of firemen were endangered by falling walls.

Dozens of automobiles and quantities of merchandise owned by Baumgardner & Co., stored in the warehouse, were destroyed.

THEATER BURNS

Loss of $200,000 Estimated Following Blaze

Fall River, Mass., Jan. 12—Empire Theater, a vaudeville and motion picture playhouse was swept by fire today at a loss estimated at $200,000.

Actors and actresses who had run from nearby hotels into the burning theater saved most of their personal belongings.

UNDERTAKERS ACCUSE CORONER OF FAVORITISM

Dayton, Jan. 12—The Tri-County Undertakers Association met here last night to draw up and file a protest with the county commissioners against the alleged action of Coroner J. F. Torence, who is accused of favoring undertakers in cases where he is officially called.

It is claimed he has used "undue influence" in obtaining the services of favored undertakers. The Tri-County Association is made up of undertakers in Montgomery, Hamilton and Preble Counties.

LOSS OF $20,000

Yorkville, Jan. 12—Fire loss of $20,000 resulted here early today in the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company's store, as the result of an over-heated stove. Firemen from nearby towns assisted in quenching the blaze.

CAR STRIKES BOY

Woman Takes Lad Home and Drives Away

Cincinnati, Jan. 12—Police here today were searching for a woman motorist described as "a pretty woman who drove an automobile," while Dr. Frank Marshall, 6, was fighting for his life after being struck by the machine yesterday.

The woman took the semi-conscious boy to a point near his home, and a passenger, who had been with her at the time of the accident, carried him into the house. The unknown driver, accompanied by another young girl, immediately drove away.

Physicians said the child was suffering from concussion of the brain.

DEPOSITS GROW IN THREE BANKS, REPORTS SHOW

Local Institutions Claim 1926 Was Very Satisfactory Business Year

ONE CHANGE IS MADE

Frank A. Huber Named Vice President of Marion National; Succeeds C. N. Phillips

Reports of satisfactory business and increased deposits during the last year were received and directors and officers elected at the annual organization meetings of three local banks, yesterday and today.

H. B. Hane was re-elected as president of the Marion National Bank, Fred E. Guthery as president of the National City Bank & Trust Co., and A. C. Edmondson as president of the Fahey Banking Co.

The two National bank meetings took place yesterday afternoon and the Fahey Bank stockholders met this afternoon. The same board of directors which served last year were re-elected, and only one change was made in the list of executive officers of the three banks. This was the election of Frank A. Huber to one of the two vice presidents of the Marion National Bank. He fills the vacancy left by the resignation of Charles N. Phillips.

Directors were elected by the stockholders and meetings of the directors were then held for election of the executive officers.

Directors, Officers

A list of the directors and bank officers follows:

Marion National: H. B. Hane, president; J. G. Leffler and Frank A. Huber, vice presidents; F. J. Lee, cashier; H. J. Merchant and H. W. Hane, assistant cashiers; H. B. Hane, W. N. Harder, Frank A. Huber, J. G. Leffler, C. W. Seavey, H. Stanley and W. L. Werner, directors.

National City Bank & Trust Co.: Fred E. Guthery, president; James R. Guthery, vice president; L. D. Zuchman, cashier; R. C. White and Paul A. Merkley, assistant cashiers; Fred E. Guthery, John D. Owens, James R. Guthery, Frank A. Huber, W. H. Holverstott, W. W. Morral, F. B. Morrison, Josiah Bradley, W. S. Ruth, A. J. Berry and L. D. Zuchman, directors.

Fahey Banking Co.: A. C. Edmondson, president; Frank A. Huber, vice president; M. C. O'Brien, cashier; W. L. Fahey, assistant cashier; A. C. Edmondson, Frank A. Huber, G. B. Seofield, J. A. Schroeter, J. E. Brendel, M. C. O'Brien and T. L. Fahey, directors.

LEGION POST TO HEAR FUND DRIVE REPORTS

Team Captains Say Considerable Progress Has Been Made in Campaign

First reports on the campaign recently started to raise funds for an American Legion home planned for Marion will be received tonight at a meeting of Bird McGinnis Post, No. 362.

Captains of the various groups into which the Post's membership has been divided for the purpose of soliciting support from the public state that they have made considerable progress and that the financing plan has excellent prospects of success.

The Legion post recently entered into a contract with a well-known insurance company under the provisions of which the organization will receive a percentage of revenue obtained from insured savings account. The Marion Savings Bank has been designated as depository for the funds.

FINDS PLAYERS ARE NOT GUILTY OF SLOUGHING

No Truth in Charges of 'Swede' Risberg and 'Chick' Gandil, Czar Concludes

REPORTERS HEAR VERDICT

Commissioner Fails To Mention Cobb and Speaker; Weaver Still Out

Chicago, Jan. 12—Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, today exonerated leading Detroit and Chicago baseball players of charges they "threw" games in 1917.

The diamond czar decided there was no truth in the charges of Charles "Swede" Risberg that the Chicago White Sox paid the Detroit Tigers for "sloughing" them a series of games.

Judge Landis also ruled there was no "sloughing" in the games of September, 1919, "except possibly" by Risberg and "Chick" Gandil, another "black sox" player, who jointly charged the Sox and Tigers with "crookedness."

No "Sloughing"

Only a group of newspapermen was present in the commissioner's office when he announced his decision in a five page document.

The concluding paragraph of Judge Landis' decision was as follows:

It is the finding of the commissioner that the fund raised by the Chicago players about Sept. 28, 1917, was not collected or paid to Detroit players for 'sloughing' to Chicago the games of Sept. 2 and 3, 1917, but was paid because of Detroit's bowling Boston; that there was no 'sloughing' of the Sept. 23, 1917, game, nor of the Sept. 26, 27 and 28, 1919, games except possibly by Risberg and Gandil."

Eddie Collins of Philadelphia Athletics; Donie Bush, Pittsburgh Pirates manager, and Ray Schalk, new pilot of the Chicago White Sox, as well as the 30 other diamond stars past and present, were absolved of all blame by Landis, who upheld the testimony of the accused men that they had merely given the Detroit team a present for winning games from the Boston Club at a time when Boston was close at the heels of the Sox in the pennant.

Nothing to Lose

By making the charges against Collins, Bush and other prominent players, Risberg and Gandil had nothing to lose, the commissioner ruled.

His decision said anent this feature:

"To some it may seem inexplicable that Risberg and Gandil should implicate themselves in these alleged corrupt practices. Obviously, that self-implication may have been conceived upon the theory that they have even incriminated themselves, so it must be true.

"However, being already on the ineligible list, this would not effect them and it might blacken 'the lily whites.'"

Judge Landis made no reference today to the cases of Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, ousted Detroit and Cleveland managers.

He said no application for a rehearing of the charges made against these men by "Dutch" Leonard, former Detroit pitcher, had been filed with him as yet.

Weaver Still Out

The commissioner also took no action on the application of "Buck" Weaver, banned White Sox player, who has asked to be returned to baseball, declaring he was innocent in the 1919 scandal.

In relation to the charges that two games of a three-game series of the Sox and Detroit teams in 1919 was "sloughed," the commissioner said:

"In addition to the charge of sloughing the Sept. 2 and 3, 1917, series, Risberg alleges that Chicago sloughed to Detroit two of a three games series at the close of 1919 season. His only specific allegations are that he played out of position and that he believes that Gandil—and two other players out of turn—also played out of position Gandil corroborates this, testifying that he played out of position—first saying 'I think it was two out of the three ball games,' and later saying: 'I probably played out of position in all three games;' that he noticed Risberg playing out of position, as figured he would do it, also, without even a word between him and Risberg or with any other Chicago or Detroit player about it.

"Of course, this testimony by Gandil and Risberg is evidence to that extent against them, but there is no evidence whatever supporting the charge as involving any other Chicago player."

Except for the claims of the accusers, there was nothing to show that any pre-arranged plans were made for raising the alleged "pool" given to Detroit and plans for raising money for any illegitimate purpose were not discussed by the players, Judge Landis ruled.

Question of Creditability

In this connection, his decision said: "Beyond the statements of Gandil, the record discloses nothing to the effect that the raising of the money was ever discussed at a meeting of the players. Whether such a meeting actually took place is important only as going to the question of creditability.

"Risberg and Gandil testify that they collected the money. Risberg puts it at about $1,100; Gandil states that he turned over to James between $900 and $1,100—that he could not give the exact amount, because some that promised

KIWANIS CLUB ARRANGES 1927 HEALTH CAMP

Local Directors Hold Session in Connection with State Finance Body

Major points of the Marion Kiwanis Club program for 1927 were outlined and approved by the directors of the club at a meeting at Hotel Harding Tuesday afternoon. The session was held in connection with the state meeting of the finance committee. Only a few members of the state committee were plac to be present, however, for the meeting which was to have discussed the state budget for the year.

The Kiwanis fresh air camp, at which 56 children were taken care of for two months last year, will again be the big feature of the Kiwanis Club work for the unprivileged child this year, the directors decided. This is in accord with the preference of club members as expressed in the first meeting at which Dr. F. A. Stengel, new president of the Club, presided last Thursday.

To Name Men

Committee appointments of the Kiwanis Club will be made at the meeting Thursday, Dr. Stengel said after the meeting of the directors. The work which will be done in all lines of Kiwanis activity will be apportioned among the members.

The directors who met yesterday included Dr. James W. McMurray, C. Z. Zachman, Fire Chief McFarland, John Hane, George Whysall, John H. Clark, Charles McClain, J. F. Coulter and President Stengel.

Howard Smith, president of the Ohio district, and Pete Land, state secretary, who were here for the state finance meeting, also sat in on the meeting of the directors of the local Club.

NADEL TO ASK ANOTHER TRIAL; IS CONVICTED

Jury Finds Him Guilty of Financing and Hiding Pat McDermott

BEN NADEL

Cleveland, Jan. 12—Motion for a new trial will be filed, it was announced today, by attorneys for Ben Nadel, convicted here late yesterday of having financed and hidden Patrick McDermott, while the latter hid for three months from police who sought him for the murder of Don R. Mellett.

Nadel is to be sentenced by Judge Walter McMahon in common pleas court Friday. The crime carries a sentence of four one to seven years in the penitentiary.

Although Nadel and McDermott both testified that they never before had seen each other, seven witnesses swore that the former acted as "angel" for Pat during his flight, maintaining him in an east side apartment.

The jury, composed of eight women and four men, deliberated about one hour.

Conn was released on $1,000 bond furnished by J. E. Holland, Dayton fight promoter. His hearing was scheduled to come up in about three weeks.

ELIMINATION OF SHINGLE ROOFS URGED BY CHIEF

Fire Runs Could Be Reduced One-Third and Loss Decreased, Claim

If Marion had no homes with shingle roofs, at least one-third of the calls answered by the local fire department at this season of the year would be eliminated, according to the records of Chief T. J. McFarland, which show that a large percentage of the runs made by the department during the last few weeks have been due to roof fires.

Seven calls have been answered by the department since Jan. 1 and five of them have been from homes where roof shingles had become ignited from chimney sparks. In December there were 15 calls resulting from this cause and the same percentage keeps up as a rule throughout the entire cold weather season.

1925 Record

In December of 1925, the department responded to 11 alarms and of this number, 18 were due to roof fires.

Generally the roofs causing the trouble have been in service over a long period of years and the shingles have become dry and brittle, so that fire is easily started from chimney sparks. Usually the shingles have curled up at the edges, providing lodging places for the sparks, which smoulder on the roof until a blaze results.

Occasionally, however, a comparatively new roof becomes ignited. This was the case in a fire last week at the home of Charles W. Kinsler on Olney av, which resulted in a loss of approximately $1,000. The Kinsler home was built only about three years ago.

The chief's record covering several years shows that with a few exceptions the damage from shingle roof fires has been small, averaging from only a few dollars upward to about $50. This is due to the fact that generally the trouble occurs during the daytime, when residence furnace fires are going full blast and chimney soot becomes ignited. The blaze is usually discovered before it has made much progress and prompt service by the fire department prevents serious damage.

Latest Call

The last call from a fire of this type came shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the home of Mrs. Ethel Ridley, 250 S. Sellers av. Firemen from engine No. 1 responded and extinguished the blaze after the roof had been only slightly damaged.

This fire menace will probably continue as long as shingle roofs, particularly those which have been in service through a long period of years, are in use, Chief McFarland states. The danger can be greatly minimized, he says, if occupants of all homes with roofs of this type will see that their chimneys are kept well cleaned and soot accumulations removed. All chimneys should be thoroughly swept out at least once each year, preferably prior to the beginning of the cold weather season, he states.

319 CHILDREN RECEIVE ATTENTION AT CLINIC

Free Dental Service in City Hospital To Be Resumed Next Summer

According to a report submitted by Dr. E. W. Imbody who headed the dental clinic conducted at City Hospital the past six months 319 children received attention. The clinic was sponsored by the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs and the King's Daughters Society with the aid, both financially and through free service, of Dr. Imbody.

The report was read at a meeting of the executive board of the Federation last Saturday, following which it was found necessary to discontinue the clinic temporarily. Owing to the success of the project, efforts will be made to continue the service with the coming of the summer months.

The specific account of the work constituted 345 amalgram fillings, 282 cement fillings, 319 prophylaxis', 291 extractions, 14 treatments, and seven synthetics. The clinic functioned from June 24, 1926, to Jan. 6, 1927.

ORGANIZATION OF SCOUT WORK IS PROGRESSING

Plans Completed for Marion County; W. C. Brown Starts Area Formation

Boy Scout organization work in the five counties comprising what is known as the Harding Council area, with central headquarters in this city, is making steady progress. Today Walter C. Brown, Scout executive officer in the district, went to Mt. Gilead for the purpose of completing the Morrow County organization and next week he will be in Bucyrus to line up his forces in Crawford County.

Marion County has already been organized and plans are now underway for increasing the Scout enrollment here. It is expected that the work will be completed throughout the entire Harding Council area within the next few weeks and that this will result in the Scout movement becoming a predominant factor in the activities of boys in this section of Ohio.

Counties in Area

Marion, Crawford, Morrow, Wyandot and Hardin counties make up the Harding area.

Mr. Brown will be in Mt. Gilead several days and Thursday night will be in charge of a meeting of business and professional men called for the purpose of organizing the Morrow County Scout council. Officers are to be elected and when this is done, the Morrow County president and treasurer will become, by virtue of their office, a part of the Harding Area executive committee. The district organization of business men sponsoring the movement is headed by Frank D. Glosser, local manufacturer.

Thursday at noon Mr. Brown will address the Mt. Gilead Kiwanis Club and his talk will be illustrated with pictures taken at Camp Owens, the Boy Scout summer camp held several miles south of Marion last year.

Crawford County

Final steps in organizing the Crawford County Council will be taken next Monday and Tuesday under the direction of Mr. Brown. There are prospects of a large increase in membership there, he states.

Mr. Brown, who has been engaged in Boy Scout work for a number of years, came to Marion last August to take charge of the movement in the Harding Area. He has made considerable progress but says that his plans for increasing Scout membership and enlarging the program of activities have been only partially consummated.

Scout Leaders

It is hoped by Mr. Brown to interest many more professional and business men in the Scout movement and to have churches in all communities in the five counties take a prominent part in the work.

"Adult leadership is absolutely essential for the success of this undertaking," the local executive said today prior to going to Mt. Gilead to complete the Morrow County organization. "If a large number of men can be induced to cooperate, the Scout movement is certain to become a powerful agency for good throughout the Harding Area."

RELIEF FROM COLD IS PROMISED IN FORECAST

Warmer Weather Accompanied by Rain Is Predicted for Tonight

Relief from the cold spell which last night sent the mercury column down to 11 degrees above zero and created huge gaps in the family coal pile is promised in the weatherman's forecast for tonight and Thursday.

According to the official reading cloudy and much warmer weather is in store, accompanied by a rain which is scheduled to start late tonight or early Thursday.

The warm weather will continue in Southern Ohio Thursday but continued cold is on the hill for the northwestern part of the state, the forecast concludes.

YOU'LL LIKE TRADING AT SCHAFFNER'S

Who ARE you going to trust?

The furniture business, like all businesses, has what might be called its "tricks of the trade."

There are as many types of manufacturers as there are types of retailers. A piece of the same design can be built in three different constructions. The three pieces might all look alike—to the customer — but time will tell which construction you bought.

In an upholstered davenport, for instance, the same piece has been built in three different constructions, and the difference in cost between the best piece and the cheapest piece has been as much as $75.00.

The point is that it is just as important to select the STORE as it is the merchandise.

That's why we always suggest that you look around. Try some other stores first, and then try Schaffner's. We believe you will find that we will "win."

While only three suicide cases are included in the summary it is probable that a fourth would have been added had the mysterious disappearance of Carlton Virden, 18-year-old business college student, been solved. Young Virden disappeared on Dec. 2 and it is believed that he committed suicide by drowning himself in Crystal Lake. His body has never been found, however, and some investigators are of the opinion that he ran away from home and left a suicide note to mislead relatives and police officials.

Miss Dickason also issued her vital statistics report for December today. It shows that there were 52 births and 31 deaths during the month. The births included 29 boy babies and 23 girls.

Heart disease exacted a heavy toll during the month, eight lives being claimed by this ailment. Other causes of death were as follows: pneumonia, six; apoplexy, four; inanition, three; meningitis, two; tuberculosis, two; Hodgkins disease, one; accidental, one; nephritis, one; other causes, two.

The fact that only one diphtheria case resulted fatally is regarded as evidence of effectiveness of the Schick test and immunization treatment which has been introduced in the public schools here.

Three Suicides

and all of them are below the number of infants which died before reaching the age of one year. Deaths of babies from various causes totalled 79.

The stork maintained a decided lead over the Grim Reaper throughout the year, the registrar's report showing that there were 604 births in the city while deaths totalled 421.

Boys were in the majority, the stork's deliveries consisting of 324 boys and 280 girls.

The registrar's report classifies the city's 421 deaths during the year as follows:

Heart disease, 74; flu and pneumonia, 55; apoplexy, 40; cancer, 27; tuberculosis, 23; senility, 22; accidental, 21; intestinal diseases, 18; nephritis, eight; suicide, three; typhoid fever, two; diphtheria, one; other causes, 48; babies under one year, 79.

MARION MAN TO ATTEND HARDING HIGHWAY MEET

W. H. Holverstott Arranging To Represent City at Directors' Session in Chicago

William H. Holverstott, secretary and treasurer of the Harding Highway Association, organized several years ago for the purpose of building a coast to coast highway in honor of President Warren G. Harding, is planning to attend the annual meeting of directors of the organization to be held Thursday in the LaSalle Hotel, Chicago.

At this meeting plans for completing the route to the Pacific coast will be taken up, according to information received here.

It is the proposal of the association to extend the highway from Washington, scene of President Harding's last service to the country, to San Francisco, the scene of his death.

Officers

Officers of the association in addition to Mr. Holverstott are Carl J. Gegler, Galion, president, John P. Walters, Culver, Ind., vice president, and J. M. Crawford, New London, Ia., and J. C. Hartline, directors.

C. M. Bond, Burlington, Ia., president of the Harding Highway Association in Iowa, is publicity director for the organization.

One of the features which the affiliated state bodies are planning for the coming year is an advertising campaign, according to officials of the national organization. In this matter Iowa has taken the lead and is urging all states through which the highway passes to join in a concerted nation-wide advertising program.

Traffic Increasing

It is pointed out by officials of the Iowa group that travel over the Harding Highway has increased immeasurably during the last year. Likewise they predict further increases and in view of this are asking merchants and hotel operators along the route to petition Iowa legislators to pass a state road bond issue to put the Iowa section of the highway in first class condition.

Village Policeman Does Movie Stunt to Get Man

COLUMBUS, Jan. 12—The famous northwest mounted police have nothing on the night police force of the village of West Jefferson, according to George Grassel, who, being on the night force, is in position to know whereof he speaks.

George halted a couple of men in an automobile. They gave him the horse laugh and ran for it when he told them they were under arrest. He leaped aboard the tire rack at the rear of the car and punctured both rear tires with shots from his trusty six-gun.

The speeders drove 12 miles into Columbus with George clinging precariously to the tire rack, the flat tires bumping merrily along. Columbus, aided by a city policeman, George "got his men" and took them back to West Jefferson.

Women, Why Suffer Needlessly?

"During my early married life I was very delicate," said Mrs. Wm. Taylor of 209 Crystal av, Findlay, Ohio, "did not have a bit of health, was very weak and sickly. Finally, during motherhood, I was so miserable I could not do anything. I doctored but got no relief. My doctor told me he could do nothing more for me and advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it not only strengthened me but my child was a fine, healthy, strong baby weighing ten pounds. The 'Favorite Prescription' is the most wonderful help in motherhood of any medicine a woman can take. I always recommend it.

Many doctors advise the use of "Favorite Prescription" because they know in almost every case it shows results. Druggists sell it in both fluid and tablets.—Adv.

Little Giant from South Upholds Oldtime Democracy

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—When Representative George Huddleston of Alabama dies or retires from politics the race of Jeffersonian Democrats will have become extinct in Washington.

A few other specimens of the dying species may still lurk in remote fastnesses of the country, but Huddleston is the only one left here.

He's a splendid specimen, too.

Representative Huddleston.

[Representative Huddleston has jumped into the limelight by a notable attack on the administration's Latin-American policy.]

It warms the blood of any true believer in what once were Democratic doctrines to hear him speak. In fact, it warms anybody's blood. He's one of the few members of congress who always has a full house whenever he takes the floor.

* * *

"All there's a man who knows what democracy is."

And it wasn't a Democratic lawmaker, either, who said this, as Huddleston sat down after a short talk the other day. It was a tribute of involuntary admiration for a legislator who speaks from the heart, and the heart of a genuine democrat, at that—with a little "d."

The strange thing is that Huddleston isn't better known. He's known in his own bailiwick, of course, and he's known on Capitol Hill as one of the ablest men who comes to Washington, but he doesn't break into the newspaper on a national scale.

Why he's so of countryside renown for his oddity, if not for his quality—is one of the mysteries to me.

* * *

That he's re-elected, term after term, isn't peculiar. In Alabama all Democratic nominees are sure of election.

But how does it happen that he's renominated?

He comes from Birmingham.

Now Birmingham is the center of the industrialism of the south. So far has southern industrialization progressed in recent years that the Republicans are figuring on gaining a foothold in steel-where manufacturing has become the predominant influence.

"I'm for absolutely free trade," Huddleston told me this himself, without a qualifying clause.

He said it in an ordinary tone, but it sounded like a clap of thunder in those times, with the rank and file of Democrats hesitant to express themselves favorably even toward tariff reduction.

* * *

How does Huddleston manage to get himself not re-elected, which is a matter of course, but renominated—in a district like his, with the views he holds, and not only holds but voices so ably?

The only explanation seems to be that he's courageous like his nerve.

They also know where he stands—a thing so rare in a politician as to count as a commercialization, perhaps, even to name a leader who stands somewhere else.

* * *

Huddleston looks like anything but a scrapper. He's short and slight, with a gentle face, an upturned nose and washed out brown hair.

He's the picture of a political tenderfoot, every inch.

From appearances, any bully should be able to run over him.

But when he unlimbers his artillery—oh how he can shoot!

Several "gentlemen"—as they call one all in congress—have tackled him to debate and been carried out feet first. They refer to him on Capitol Hill as "the little giant from the south."

The young man of today does not want to leave his footprints on the sands of time. He's his automobile tracks he wants to see there.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overstoutness, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat.

If you are overstout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

WET LEADER LOSES HIS FIGHT ON RESOLUTION

Attempt To Vote on Anti-Poisoning Bill Is Blocked in N. Y. Legislature

Albany, Jan. 12—Foes of prohibition have lost their first battle in the 1927 legislature.

An attempt by Assemblyman Maurice Bloch of New York, Democratic leader of the lower house, to secure immediate consideration of his resolution calling upon congress to prohibit the poisoning of industrial alcohol, was blocked by the Republican majority.

Declaring the federal government should "stop killing people with poison liquor," Bloch announced he would press his resolution next Monday night.

SAPPING SPUNK

Says Modern Education Is Hurting Present Generation

Chicago, Jan. 12—Modern education and pursuits are sapping the spunk from the present generation, President Donald J. Cowling, of Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., told a community congregation here.

"If Americans of 1776 had been trained in the colleges of today," Cowling said, "they would have submitted to the King of England. The education of their day fostered ideas of personal freedom."

PLAN P-T-A MEETING

Dayton, Jan. 12—Six hundred persons prominently identified with the Parent-Teacher Association movement of the southern district of Ohio will meet here Jan. 21 for an all-day program of especial interest, culminating in a banquet at which C. F. Kettering will speak on "Are Parents Slackers?"

Hez Heck says: "You can't get the real kick out o' a good resolution until you do somethin' bad."

STATE BAR ASSOCIATION RAPS LIBELING OF DEAD

Toledo, Jan. 12—The Ohio State Bar Association, which will open its mid-winter meeting here Jan. 17, is to sponsor a law which would make libeling of the dead as illegal as against the living.

It would provide a fine of $500 and six months imprisonment for violators.

BANS "BLACK BOTTOM"

Akron, Jan. 12—The "black bottom" has been banned here by George E. McCord, superintendent of public schools. In a letter to all principals of schools, McCord declared that students recently have participated in the dance which he believes to be immoral and ugly.

It is hard to be an optimist when you run out of gas and get a blowout simultaneously

MOUNTAIN SHERIFF SHOWS POLICE HOW

Cleveland, Jan. 12 — Northwest Mounted Police aren't the only officers of the law who always get their man. Fish in Mountain City, Tenn., who trespass against the law know it. Deputy Sheriff Hugh Tolliver Dick Wills gets on their trail they might as well give themselves up, for he always aims to get what he goes after.

Wills astonished Cleveland Scenes by coming here to round up his own cities in the search for a Tennessee boy charged with cheating Kuschen out of $300. He soon had the entire detective force scouting for him, claiming such quick action that veteran police reporters gasped for breath and suggested he be added to the force.

Formerly a cattle man and used to decisive, straight-from-the-shoulder action, Wills, when cornered for an interview, declared:

"Never did fail in anything yet and I'm going to keep after this kid until I get him. It's powerful hard having to arrest someone I know so well, but I just told the folks back home not to worry. I wouldn't hurt him. Been deputy two months and haven't used my gun yet, but that isn't saying I wouldn't if I had to.

"It's a bit embarrassing to go into homes of folk I've known all my life to search for stills and such, but law's law and I have to do my duty.

About Prohibition, Well—

"How do I stand on prohibition? Well, I don't mind telling you, it'd be a heap sight better to have the government regulating the making of good liquor and collecting revenue than it is to have the bootlegger making rotten stuff of lye and sugar that's killing our folks. Folks that used to rank moonshine were low down trash, but nowadays rich business folk are making and selling the stuff because there's money in it.

"Now, if I was a running for United States senator from Tennessee, I'd try that. Don't see that the farmers and the workingmen get what they ought to get.

"Them down my way are getting more civilized now. We don't have any lynchings in Tennessee because the people's getting sense.

"But about this evolution business—I don't think much of that. When any man starts to tell me my ancestors were monkeys it just makes me feel. No, sir, we don't take stock in that down in our Tennessee mountains.

And Autos Are Plentiful

"The mountains aren't shut in the way they used to be. We've got good roads now and folks get around more. We have dances in the city just as you do. Up in the hills we dance the Virginia reel and we have pretty fine music—fiddle, jews' harp and sometimes a guitar. We've got hoppers, too, but our girls don't smoke much. I want to tell you I've seen just about as pretty women right here in Cleveland as I've seen anywhere. Folks up north here are mighty nice and they're gentlemen and ladies.

"Seems funny not to know everybody here. Down in Mountain City, about half the people are my relatives, and the other half are my wife's. But if I lived here six months I'd know as many folks here as anyone does. I never forget a face or a name. That's powerful important in a sheriff's business, and I always aim to get my man."

ST. LOUIS OPENS GREAT CARD OF IMPROVEMENTS

Cost of Civic Projects for 1927 Expected To Total $79,355,000

St. Louis, Jan. 12 — This city enters the new year of 1927 in the midst of the greatest civic improvement program in its history.

Two hundred projects which will total $79,355,000 when completed, of which the majority are actually under way and the remainder will be completed within the next five years.

Major projects are such as a $6,000,000 Municipal Plaza, a $12,000,000 municipal auditorium, $4,000,000 municipal warehouse, $4,000,000 municipal power plant, $8,000,000 municipal bridge, $10,000,000 street lighting system, $10,000,000 sewer improvement plan, $10,000,000 city improvement program, $5,000,000 fire equipment, $4,000,000 recreation, $2,500,000 for parks and playgrounds, $2,500,000 hospital program and $1,250,000 for grade crossing elimination.

New Waterworks

The new waterworks, now under construction near the mouth of the Missouri River, is the largest single item. It will have a capacity of 80,000,000 gallons of water per day and is expected to be completed in 1928. Work on the plant is going forward in four stages. Three contract work construction of a pumping and purifying plant erection of a reservoir with a capacity of 100,000,000 gallons and the laying of a 36-inch pipeline from the plant to the city a distance of 15 miles.

About one-fourth of the $75,000,000 authorized for the street lighting system has been utilized. A street celebration and parade was recently held at the completion of the first unit, when 2,500 of the new lights were turned on. The name of Mayor Victor Miller turned from telephone wires to Pittsburgh was converted into radio impulses, which, when connected with the current here caused the lights completed to flash into brilliance.

The widening of Olive Street, the city's main artery, is probably the biggest project from an improvement standpoint that is being undertaken. Work on this is well under way and many of the old landmarks and "eyesores" that were seen along this street for scores of years have been razed.

Most of the improvements were authorized in the $87,000,000 bond issue passed in 1923, some were instituted later by the city, according to F. R. Kinsey, president of the Board of Public Service. Virtually all the projects are in process of construction. In cases where they are not, plans are complete and work will be under way soon.

SAENZ'S REPLY TO COOLIDGE CHARGES

South Carolina, calling upon Secretary Kellogg for the names of Americans owning property in Mexico "threatened by the new land and petroleum laws" said, three, by Fairfield, Republican, of New York, a blanket endorsement of administration policy.

Secretary Kellogg was accompanied to the capitol by a number of aides bearing brief cases and portfolios of data on the existing state of affairs below the Rio Grande.

Robinson Summoned

Just prior to Kellogg's appearance, Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader of the senate, was summoned to the White House for a hurried conference with President Coolidge. Robinson is also a member of the foreign relations committee.

Two of the severest critics of administration policy, Senators Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, and La Follette, Republican, of Wisconsin, were permitted to attend the meeting behind closed doors, although they are not members of the foreign relations committee.

Wheeler and La Follette angrily walked into the meeting and after they came out no one apparently wanted to echo the senate's duty for harmony. It established a precedent in the senate.

A White House call brought the Democratic leader to the executive offices and carried him back to the capitol for the conference. The president's action in again consulting the Democratic leader, instead of Senator William E. Borah, Republican, of Idaho, chairman of the committee, aroused considerable comment at the capitol. Borah is completely out of sympathy with administration policy and Mr. Coolidge apparently considered it more advantageous from the administration's standpoint to deal with the Democratic leader.

Mexico's disavowal of any desire for war with the United States, contained in the conciliatory statement issued by Foreign Minister Saenz in reply to President Coolidge's message to congress, did not allay fears the ten days that grips Washington concerning the state of affairs in Central America.

Administration officials accepted at its face value Mexico's professed desire for peace. They did not, however, accept equally the disclaimer that the Calles government has only an academic interest in the Nicaraguan revolution.

Saenz's reply to the Coolidge charges did not mention the acts of Mexican gun running to Nicaragua, stressed in the president's message.

Mexico Won't Deny

This was taken as an indication that Mexico will not deny that arms and munitions of Mexican manufacture have found their way into the hands of the Sacasa revolutionists in Nicaragua. On the contrary, Mexico has taken the stand that the Sacasa government in Nicaragua is the constitutional government, a contention incidentally supported by a number of United States senators, and that such being the case, Mexico is as much entitled to assist Sacasa as the American government is to assist his rival, Diaz.

A hint that Mexico may possibly make a formal offer to have the whole set of Mexican-American differences arbitrated was also contained in the Saenz statement.

"If," it concluded, "the American government that has striven so much for international peace and arbitration to settle th edifficulties among nations, should turn its back to its principles, trying to impose strength upon right, it would assume an attitude absolutely inexplicable."

Meanwhile, the temporary "truce" that has prevailed in the senate and prevented opponents of the administration's policy from indulging in bitter attacks, came to an end today with the appearance of Secretary of State Kellog before the foreign relations committee.

Daily Proverb—"Do as most men do and men will speak well of thee."

"Unfilled Steel Orders Increase," read a headline yesterday. Looks as though maybe these $40,000,000 melons may become perennials.

Hollywood is growing tame. A news item said there were twenty-three marriages out there last year and only seventeen divorces.

"Happily," says the Boston Globe, "there has been no serious scandal connected with the League of Nations yet." Somebody must have paid that cigar bill.

Agitation against compulsory military training at the Ohio State university has been renewed. There's no getting away from the fact that the pacificist-bolshevikl element is persistent.

We sincerely hope the White House spokesman will refrain from saying anything about raising a navy "overnight by a stamp of the foot."

Apropos of the trial of Rev. J. Frank Norris, of Fort Worth, for murder, we can recall very few pastors who have found occasion to use a gun in preaching the gospel of the Lord.

Talking about nervous prostration, hugging the feelings of the New York producers since Mayor Jimmy Walker inaugurated his dramatic housecleaning!

It's all right for those who have the money and an inclination that way, but we can think of three or four ways we would rather spend $75 than by telephoning to Europe.

Senator Norris is said to fear that the senate will stultify itself and make itself the laughing stock of the country if it doesn't take his advice. It must be awful to take oneself as seriously as that.

It's going to seem mighty odd to Mr. Donahey, one of these days, not to have automobile license, No. 1, unless, of course, Vic's wedded to it for life, and admittedly it looks a bit that way.

Apparently nothing is impossible in Chicago. A street car full of passengers got lost in the loop up there, the other night, during a snow storm.

Let there be no mistake. It is Smedley D. Butler who has come out for wetness and not another distinguished gentleman of that name in public life, although it seems to us the latter has far more ground for taking a drink.

It is announced that 1927 will see 1,000,000 automobiles added to those in operation in 1926. We true aristocrats of the land may just as well bow to the inevitable. We're doomed.

When he leaped from the Delaware river bridge, a Philadelphia man intended to commit suicide, but when he had gone a part of the way to the water 175 feet below he changed his mind and concluded to make it a dive and live. The moral of this is that every one thinking of committing suicide by leaping from a bridge should know how to dive and swim and be able to think quickly.

In the light of Premier Bruce's statement, that Americans are unduly modest, it must be that his associations over here have been entirely with hard-working spreaders of joy and sunshine in paragraphs.

The federal supreme court has denied an application for a rehearing of its decision prohibiting a physician from prescribing more than a pint of liquid delight to a patient in ten days. Manifestly our highest judicial tribunal proposes to maintain at the highest the general health of the country.

Extending Business Districts.

We can appreciate the fact that the limits of our business district can not always remain what they are. It is hardly conceivable that a city the size of Marion, founded as Marion was and built up the way Marion has been can remain passive either in business or population. It simply must spread out in both its residential and business section, and arrangements providing for the expansion of its business sections can hardly be criticized, provided they are general rather than haphazard. They should not be made to apply to any one particular proposed improvement, but rather be made to meet the manifest trend of business. When this is done, little complaint can be justified.

But regardless of what action has been or may be taken along this line, there is less question, as this paper sees it, of the advisability of preparation for building than of building just at present. We do not pretend to know the immediate commercial possibilities of Marion, but we do know of business blocks erected at the outskirts of the uptown business sections which have hardly justified a reference to them as dividend payers. When the demand for business rooms outside the heart of the business districts exceeds the supply, we can see justification for the construction of more. Just at present, the supply very perceptibly exceeds the demand.

Now Is the Time To Speak.

Serious fault can not be found with the [illegible] of council for going [illegible] the matter of ward boundaries. In fact [illegible] to view that they are to be commended for making the announcement that [illegible] not take action until citizens have had [illegible] to offer any objections they may have to the proposed new arrangement.

It will be remembered that [illegible] recently approved by the city [illegible] published and very shortly thereafter [illegible] although some criticism of it has been voiced. However, it was several days after council had taken the action it did that before the storm of criticism aroused by the arrangement reached its height.

To obviate anything of the kind, council now says to the public: "Here's the proposed arrangement. If you have any objection to it now is the time to state it. If it doesn't suit you, now is the time to rave."

In the face of councilic announcement, it is up to the people of Marion to act in good faith with the city fathers. If there is real objection to the proposed change made, it should be set up now. If there is no objection worthy of name, members of council will be justified in assuming that the silence of the public signifies the approval of the plan by our citizenship.

Now is the time to speak.

To Safeguard Rail Travel.

Utilizing a special train made up of two coaches and engine, No. 175, the fastest locomotive on the Reading road, a new automatic electrically-controlled safety device which not only stops a train which enters a danger zone, but also stops a train at any point when it attains a speed beyond which the management of the road does not want a train to go, was given a thorough try-out on the Atlantic division of the Reading system last week. For the test, the maximum speed was set at eighty-five miles an hour.

The first test was made near the Clementon block, the operator of which had been instructed to hold the danger signal on the special. The train was going over seventy miles an hour when it passed the first signal. The engineer had the throttle wide open and was "letting her go." Forty and a half seconds after the second signal was passed and the danger zone had been entered the brake shoes gripped the wheels and the train came to a halt within a short distance.

For the second test, the train pulled out from a dead halt. Six miles had been covered when the indicator reached the eighty-five-mile maximum. Instantly the brakes sounded giving notice that the device was working, and the special slowly came to a halt.

The Atlantic railroad of the system now has the device in operation, the installation having cost $7,500,000. Three-quarters of a million dollars is a large price to pay for a safety device installation on a comparatively short road, but such a device is well worth all it may cost when the safety it affords to travelers and employes alike is considered. That's the humanitarian side of it, but purely from a financial standpoint it is money well expended. When all roads are thus equipped and the possibility of one train crashing into another is thus removed it means millions saved annually in personal and property damages. A safety device that doesn't deliver the goods is dear at any price, but one which actually works for safety, as this device has demonstrated it will, spells economy from any angle.

Taking their own medicine manifestly is construed by the bootleggers as a departure from the ethics of the business they follow.

Criticizing Governor Donahey's budget, Representative Frank H. Ward, of Monroe county, Democratic floor leader, says there is too much deadwood in state government. Sure, Frank, sure! But we have to reward "the boys" with jobs, and what other kind could they fill?

It's no more than fair, however, to remember that the Father of His Country and his men didn't have any axe-grease protection when they negotiated the Delaware.

The Columbus Dispatch comments on the fact "that crooked influences surrounding professional baseball never seem to have tried to buy an umpire." The explanation may be that the salaries paid umpires are not such as to tend to dreams in high finance.

Henry Stevens, indicted with his sister and brother for the Hall-Mills murder, had been elected president of the council of his borough, which latter goes to show that the people of his home town also can play a little politics when they conclude the time is ripe for it.

There's none like pretty Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.
There is no lady in the land
Is half so sweet as Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

When she is by I leave my work,
I love her so sincerely;
My master comes like any Turk,
And bangs me most severely.
But let him bang his belly full,
I'll bear it all for Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

Of all the days that's in the week
I dearly love but one day—
And that's the day that comes betwixt
A Saturday and Monday;
For then I'm dressed all in my best
To walk abroad with Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

When Christmas comes about again,
O then I shall have money,
I'll hoard it up as long as I can,
But I'll give it to my honey;
I would it were ten thousand pound,
I'd give it all to Sally;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

My master and the neighbors all
Make game of me and Sally,
And, but for her, I'd not be
A slave and servant to Sally;
But when my seven long years are out
O then I'll marry Sally,
O then we'll live like king and queen,
But not in our alley.

—Henry Carey.

Extending Business Districts.

We can appreciate the fact that the limits of our business district can not always remain what they are. It is hardly conceivable that a city the size of Marion, founded as Marion was and built up the way Marion has been can remain passive either in business or population. It simply must spread out in both its residential and business section, and arrangements providing for the expansion of its business sections can hardly be criticized, provided they are general rather than haphazard. They should not be made to apply to any one particular proposed improvement, but rather be made to meet the manifest trend of business. When this is done, little complaint can be justified.

But regardless of what action has been or may be taken along this line, there is less question, as this paper sees it, of the advisability of preparation for building than of building just at present. We do not pretend to know the immediate commercial possibilities of Marion, but we do know of business blocks erected at the outskirts of the uptown business sections which have hardly justified a reference to them as dividend payers. When the demand for business rooms outside the heart of the business districts exceeds the supply, we can see justification for the construction of more. Just at present, the supply very perceptibly exceeds the demand.

THE NATIONAL PASTIME

Common Sense Dress for Outdoors.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A few weeks ago I went up to Exeter to spend a holiday with my boy. It was blusteringly cold, but not a lad in the academy would deign to wear a hat. In rain and sunshine, in snow and sleet, it is all the same. They are like the couriers mentioned by Herodotus: "Neither rain nor sleet nor heat nor gloom of night" deters them.

Talking with one of the instructors, I was glad to learn the school had a sensible rule: Between Christmas holidays and Washington's birthday, the boys are required to wear some sort of head gear in their outdoor life.

It is all very well to say savages never wear hats, that by long custom their scalps are as hard as our toes. Neither do the savages have steam heated hose and hot irritation kalk. They are not subjected to the contrasts of temperature which civilized man endures.

When we begin to live twenty-four hours every day and all the days of the year, just as the savage does, then we may adopt his practice as regards head-gear. Until then we must conform to the dictation of the thermometer.

Cutharrhal conditions are often the upshot of exposure. An hour in a hot room causes the skin to perspire. The intimate clothing is damp and the more hair you possess, the more moisture it absorbs from your sweating head.

Then you go into the cold air without overcoat or hat. The skin is chilled by the cold and the sweat; evaporation of the moisture in clothing and hair produces still more chilling of the skin surface. What happens?

The superficial blood-vessels contract and the blood is forced to the deeper parts—to the nose, throat, and bronchial tubes. This produces congestion, opening the way for germ invasion and perhaps for illness.

It is just as bad to coddle a boy, to wrap him up in mufflers and hood him down with thick flannels and woolen stockings. These excite the sweat glands, produce moisture and prepare the way for a chilling such as I have described.

The boys at Exeter and other North American schools need no shouting evidence of their hardiness and weariness. Everybody is proud of them, certainly I am, but we will be just as enthusiastic over them if they guard their precious bodies against the things which make for sickness. We don't want them to have tonsilitis, earache, sinus involvement, bronchitis and other ailments with follow undue exposure.

Sensible outer garments—hat, coat and foot gear—are not evidences of femininity. They are outward and visible signs of good sense, founded on knowledge of the body, its physiology and pathology.

Wisdom consists not alone in what the books teach us the way of "learning." But it consists likewise in learning how to live and in keeping the temple of the body a fit place for housing the mind and soul.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

W. J. C. Q—What do you advise for intestinal worms?

A. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

J. J. S. Q. Several years ago I had bronchitis and ever since I have had bronchial trouble whenever I talk I have to clear my throat and I get hoarse. What would you advise?

A. Build up your health in general and you will be less susceptible to colds and coughs. A good, general tonic and throat spray should be helpful also. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.—Copyright, 1927.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it can not be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, in care of this office.

Who's Who and Why.

ALFRED E. SMITH

Four times elected governor of New York state, in each case by a large majority, Alfred E. Smith is one of the most prominent figures in the Democratic party. At the Democratic national convention in 1924 he was one of the strongest candidates for the presidential nomination. He withdrew along with William G. McAdoo, because of a deadlock, after a large number of ballots had been taken. Governor Smith was born in New York City, December 30, 1873. He has long been in public office both in the city and in the state, serving as a member of the New York assembly for twelve years. He is one of the favorite sons of Tammany Hall, the Democratic political organization. He is a favorite candidate of the wets for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928.

The righteous also shall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands shall be stronger and stronger. — Job 17:9.

Prayer—Dear Lord may my strength be as the strength of ten because I trust in Thee for a clean heart.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. Did the Indians [illegible]? E. B. W.

A. According to the [illegible] American Indians" not all of the [illegible] Indians were accustomed to using [illegible] from difficulty of procuring it, the absence of the habit, a repugnance for the [illegible] religious reasons, it is not always [illegible] say. Salt exists in enormous quantities in the United States, and it was not difficult [illegible] Indians to obtain it.

Q. In what country [illegible] vote? H. H.

A. Women at present exercise the franchise in the following countries: United States, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Iceland, Holland, Russia, Switzerland, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Russia, Czecho-Slovakia, Ukraine, Esthonia, Lattvia, Jamaica.

Q. What kinds of [illegible] were worn during the Middle Ages? T. D.

A. Most shoes [illegible] sometimes closed to the ankle [illegible] but frequently open down the front [illegible] with decorative straps. Soft [illegible] wooden gaiter shoes, and simple [illegible] reaching to the end of tights were also worn. Boots of high shoes and boots were often [illegible] or trimmed with fur. During the [illegible] century pointed toes of shoes increased in length, when the points were sometimes [illegible] and back and tied to a garter [illegible] knee. High wooden clogs were worn [illegible] height. In the last quarter of [illegible] century pointed toes began to be succeeded by round ones that later became broad and almost square.

Q. What does the abbreviation p. q. following a lawyer's name in a legal notice mean? W. C. S.

A. It signifies "per quod" and means literally: In the case it means the lawyer attaches his signature and the reason whereby he is official is the fact that he is a notary appointed at a certain time, giving the expiration of his term of office.

Q. By comparison with the length of life of animals after reaching maturity, how long should a man live? L. J. F.

A. An article in Hygiea says that man should live 125 years instead of seventy. The figure is based on a study of the relation of maturity to life, it being contended that native mammals live about five times as long as it takes them to become mature, as determined by the ossification of their bones. A man is mature at about twenty-five years, and at the same rate should live to be 125. This seventy-five years remains his so. He has barely raised his family by that time."

Q. Is it possible to dye all materials same [illegible]? B. B. B.

A. Materials that contain starch, sizing, stains or spots, or are soiled will not dye satisfactorily.

Q. Who named Christian Science? D. H.

A. It was named by Mary Baker Eddy, [illegible] founder.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

The foundation of a city state, it has been said, is the education of its youth. He glad [illegible] town has five schools. The world [illegible] be saved by the folks just [illegible] perhaps they may live to have a very good time in life. The big improvement in the state of mankind will be worked out in the long to-morrows for which the schools of today are preparing.

Don't work too hard though everybody is entitled to at least a little relaxation. What are you doing about that?

Detroit used to read detective and crime stories after dinner. Later in the evening he would examine his studies into the theories and facts of evolution.

Good Burton very vain, used to spend hours in the morning curling his hair and generally duffing off.

Nelson P. Cage, great American statesman of the Lincoln period spent hours playing chess.

Samson, who was employed to cut off heads during the French revolution, found relaxation in weaving mats from the hair of his victims.

Lawyers play golf.

The old prize-breaker who said that a fool and his money [illegible] but it takes a wise man to spend it, wasn't so far wrong. Men who succeed a reputation for wisdom in the conduct of their business often make such a botch of their wills that their friends can never quite figure out what was the matter with them. It may be added that persons who have no money to leave always believe they could dispose of it in a really intelligent fashion.

In the day of many newspapers, numerous methods of quick and easy transportation and vastly improved methods of communication, one wonders if Daniel Webster would feel that his powers had worked out in practice. Webster lived before the middle of the last century.

Where is the Christian religion, I know of [illegible] to be compared with the influence of a free social intercourse between communities in softening asperities, removing prejudices, extending knowledge, and promoting human happiness.

Daniel Webster had a great deal of faith in material civilization — perhaps too much. Along with the speeding up of transit and communication there must be a whole lot of more active cultivation of the somewhat weak and simpler traits of kindness that grow in the human heart.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Saturday.

H. W. Cookston was elected president of the Marion County Agricultural society. The attempt to elect a board to run a wild-cat league was overwhelmingly defeated.

During a religious revival at Richwood, Mrs. J. O. Wynn, of that place, went into a trance which lasted till 6 o'clock the next morning.

An invention which is expected to revolutionize the motion-picture industry, has just been perfected after fourteen years of experiment. This is a non-inflammable film, which in all other respects is equal or even superior to the standard film now used.

Men have spent large portions of their lives in perfecting a single piece of furniture. The famous cabinet of Louis XIV., which is nearly twenty feet long and contains 687 drawers, 120 of which are secret, is said to have taken its maker seventeen years to construct.

The Oxford dictionary, which is now nearing completion, contains over 400,000 words. It will be finished some time next year, and, as it was begun in 1882, will have taken forty-six years to complete. Twelve people have been constantly at work upon it, and the total cost will be about $250,000.

On the Pacific Slope.

BY O. O. MCINTYRE.

Los Angeles, Jan. 12—The New Yorker is a little baffled out here with the way things are accomplished in a leisurely way. He is accustomed to flying subway trains, hurried conferences, rapid fire luncheons and crowds. The Gotham tempo is quick. Always quick.

Gotham provides a mountain goat existence, leaping from crag to crag. Here is a man who time for works, rides, tennis and a shower before breakfast. They stroll to their clubs for luncheon and may have time for the beach. They chat on street corners and in the park benches in a warmth of friendliness.

Yet they tunnel mountains, make rivers run in deserts and build towering cities. And have a lot of fun as they go along. Out in Hollywood you find stars and directors loafing for hours between pictures. And this brings us to the rosette dream of almost every person in voltage.

The longing to quit the plow or the office stool and become a movie extra. It is no question that most of the movie stars were plucked from obscurity and it is this romantical fact that brings thousands upon thousands of aspirants to the shrine.

They are still pouring into that Los Angeles suburb, vibrant and eager eyed with hope to drive swiftly to despair. At sun up they are at the casting offices day after day to hear the same old refrain: "Sorry, nothing today."

Hollywood is now its ceaseless warnings and yet they come. Not one in 10,000 [illegible] the "Big Chance." A pitiful few check baggage and go back home. The stories of Valentino, Swanson and a host of others [illegible] the cost of those who remain.

Widowed mothers bring their beautiful Jackie Coogans and Baby Peggies. Girls quit their typewriters and young men their counters impelled by the swish of rosettes that [illegible] before them in Main street [illegible]. They swarm here, flourish and ruthlessly vanish.

I believe it was Harry Witwer who called Hollywood "Yes Man's Land." It is a tradition that every director has his Yes man—some one who and hurried soul who will scurry around [illegible] to ask if the director suggests it. This is the hope to tortured directorial [illegible] so many are the oppositions in making a picture that had he not this quiescent influence he would likely be carried off the lot in a straight jacket at the end of the first reel.

It interested me to inquire who is the most popular producer in Hollywood. I asked many in all branches of the industry and in almost every instance it was Adolph Zukor. He has been in a way the kindly little man to almost every one [illegible] in black and deploring garments. I have never met Mr. Zukor save for a hurried handshake in a skip [illegible] room nor am I acquainted with his private life. So I can not be called prejudiced in his favor.

I also find Jack Dempsey is extremely popular among Los Angelenos. His hotel in Santa Barbara is on a mid-town corner with an expensive pressed yellow brick facade and it is said to be devoting much time to its management.

Los Angeles seems to have more drug stores than any city in America. Some one calls it the Sea of Opes. Most appear the kind that would have to send out for a pharmacist if some one [illegible] a prescription. They sell everything from needle threaders to bass drums. One hotel had evening jazz concerts and a [illegible] ball.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

Getting married is always funny to the bystanders, and that seems funny to me, even [illegible] thinks it's a great joke, but the bridegroom takes it as seriously as a butcher does on an Oklahoma farm. The bride just smiles to herself and never tells anybody what she is smiling about.

But when a guy gets married the second or third time, it gets to be a kind of a public joke. He still takes it seriously, of course, but the rest of the folks just naturally can't keep quiet, even when he's around with his bridegroom face on.

Well, the one that this joke is about has been married three times, and so had his girl. It was going to be the fourth wedding for both of them. Well, the poor groom had the hard luck to go to the editor of the paper to ask him to print some invitations for him in his job shop. The editor was a crusty guy anyway, and he was mad when he seen the bridegroom still taking it all so seriously.

"Now, what had I ought to have printed on the invitations, to show people that this ain't any ordinary wedding, but a something special?" the poor boob asked.

"Well, says the editor and printer, "I think we might fix up something like this: 'Not an Amateur Performance.' How will that go?"

And the editor-printer didn't seem to be a bit sore when the bridegroom took his printing job and went somewheres else with it.—Copyright, 1927.

Dinner Stories.

The first day of kindergarten the teacher explained to the children that it behooved them to behave if they wanted to stay.

On his return home, Willie's mother asked him how he liked it.

"Well," replied the boy, "we've got to behave ourselves, all right."

POLICE HOLD SUSPECT IN STEUBENVILLE DEATHS

Taken When House at Yorkville Is Raided; Blackhand Plot Seen

Wellsburg, W. Va., Jan. 12—Police here announced today that a suspect under arrest is believed to be implicated in the murders of Dr. Deigo Del Fino and Nick Pelegrina at Steubenville, Ohio.

The man was arrested last night when West Virginia and Jefferson County, Ohio, officers raided a house at Yorkville, Ohio.

Pelegrina was shot to death early Sunday, indications pointing to a revenge motive.

Dr. Del Fino, a widely-known physician, was slain two months ago under similar circumstances.

Police believe both men were the victims of a blackhand plot.

Behind the Screen

UNEASY lies the producer's head who has several temperamental stars under contract. Must be something in the Hollywood air that is disturbing the atmosphere of movieland for no less than three feminine players have registered dissatisfaction with the companies to whom they are under contract within the last week or so.

Metro-Goldwyn has finally patched up its differences with Greta Garbo and she is back at work. 'Tis said the fair Greta from Sweden walked off the set one day and refused to return. Overtures were made and all is peace full—for the time being. Mae Murray has been trying for six months to obtain a release from the same company. At last she is a free agent, and several concerns are bidding for her services. One producer offered her $700,000 for three pictures annually and 25 per cent of the profit.

Lya de Putti, Paramount's German "find" is the latest actress to swell the ranks of discontents. Feeling the urge to become a free lance player she has been given her release by Paramount with the understanding that they can call for her services at their regular contract price.

Will this constant friction between player and producer hasten the decline of the star system? Hollywood wonders.

Peter B. Kyne is to write a story for Universal based on the murder of Don R. Mellett crusading editor of Canton, O. It will be an attack on bootlegging. Detective Dan Reed, through whose efforts one man implicated in the murder already has been sent to prison for life, may appear in the picture.

Lil Dagover, German actress, who recently arrived in this country to be Emil Jannings's leading woman, if so how learned was wedded recently to George Witt, assistant to Erich Pommer. She is remembered here for her work in "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari."

When Queen Marie sailed out of New York harbor she carried with her a complete record of her American trip presented to her by Pathe News, for preservation in the archives of the Kingdom of Roumania.

United Artists with such stars as Gloria Swanson, John Barrymore, Basil Rathbone, Norma Talmadge and the Talmadge Sisters added to its organization which was founded in 1919 by Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, D. W. Griffith and Douglas Fairbanks has a busy production schedule mapped out. Mary Pickford is considering making a comedy; Gloria will make "The Woman's Battalion of Death." Norma Talmadge, now finishing "Camille," will start "The Dove." Sister Constance has two more films to do, then she also will join U. A. Doug Fairbanks may make one based on the Crusades. Charlie may choose 1927 in which to do his life of Napoleon. John Barrymore, in his yacht, "The Mariner," is cruising along the South American coast while he studies classical and historical books in search of picture material. This year may also bring forth "The Gay Nineties," starring Buster Keaton. The Duncan Sisters will make their bow in "Topsy and Eva."

COOKING DUEL LOOM, ROSA LEWIS CHALLENGED

French Chef Takes Exceptions to Statement English Cooks Best

New York, Jan. 12—Passionless as a cucumber, with sliders as weapons and a blackened stove as the "field of honor" bound here today.

Louis Diat, famous French chef, who confessed to preparing culinary delights for guests at a hotel here, dispatched a letter to Rosa Lewis, the world renowned English cook, in which he took exception to the latter's statements that English cooks are best, American waiters second, and French cooks far in the rear.

Goaded to chivalrous heroics by Mr. Diat's letter asked Mrs. Lewis to explore with English hotels imported their best chefs from Paris, and went to practice dead in extolling the virtues of the persecuted sauce pot wielder. In conclusion, he challenged the woman to a duel the merits of the cooking to be determined by an impartial jury of epicureans. He suggested Mayor Walker as a possible member.

A RAW, SORE THROAT

quickly yields when you apply a little Musterole. It penetrates to the very spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain and won't blister like the old fashioned mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, bronchial congestion, pleurisy, rheumatic backache, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Rheumatism can't be rubbed away

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, causing you sleepless nights?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S. S. S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief to thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a great many years. At times my joints would swell so I couldn't walk. I tried most everything. Went to Hot Springs and finally I decided to try S. S. S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I also had a breaking out on my hands for years that nothing would heal, but now this has disappeared and I am sure that it was S. S. S. which removed the cause. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S. S. S. is the best." Carl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S. S. S. is purely vegetable; it is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The large size is more economical. Adv.

INDIGESTION MAKING YOU MISERABLE?

See How Quick Improvement Comes

DO you suffer the tortures of this typical American malady? Are you afraid to eat the food you like? Do pains and discomforts after eating drive you mad?

You need Plant Juice, the pleasant tasting, natural remedy of herbs, roots, barks, leaves and blossoms. It is Nature's way to stimulate your liver and your bowels. Safe and quick in action.

Read Mrs. Mary Bowers' experience—Mrs. Bowers writes from Cabin 13, 11th Street Bridge, Wilmington, Del.:

"Four years ago I was just miserable from indigestion, gas bloating, headaches, and dizzy spells. To eat anything meant only to suffer, and such headaches would come on that I felt like my head would burst. I had such dizzy attacks I had to sit down. I began taking Plant Juice, and after my sixth bottle I was like a new person. It just put my stomach in perfect condition, rid me of all the headaches, dizziness, and gas bloating, so that I did not have a sign of distress left. Plant Juice put me in splendid health, which I have enjoyed ever since."

If the first bottle of Plant Juice makes you feel a lot better don't stop taking it. Give this good old remedy a chance to do some real good. Let it tone up your system and get you good and clean.

For nearly 31 years Dillinghams' Plant Juice has helped people like you. We have received thousands of grateful letters from indigestion sufferers. Your druggist can supply you. Ask for the original Dillingham's Plant Juice.

THREE-DAY COLDS THREATEN LUNGS

A cough or cold that hangs on after the third day is a threat.

Do something! Don't wait until the cold has run its course—from your head to your throat—from throat to chest or bronchial tubes. Break up your cold before it settles in this "danger zone"; for inflammation spreads, and your bronchial tubes lead directly into your lungs!

Quickly and unfailingly Ayer's Cherry Pectoral goes straight to the seat of trouble. With the very first swallow you feel its comforting warmth. You feel its soothing, healing powers reaching deep down into your bronchial tubes. You feel it penetrating through and through the irritated membranes.

This healing medication, absorbed into the membranes themselves, breaks up the cold, stops the cough, brings prompt and lasting relief.

If you are catching cold; if you have a "head cold"; if your chest is tight; if you have a cough—even if bronchitis has developed—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at once!

Cherry Pectoral is pleasant, safe and dependable—for children and grown people. At all druggists—60c; twice as much, $1.00. 2ath

A victory day program was given at a meeting of members of the Latham Stevens W. C. T. U. held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. J. J. Stafford at her home, Haas-av. The program, which was presented by Mrs. A. H. Treed, Mrs. S. O. Somerlot, Mrs. F. L. Trott, Mrs. H. O. Teats, and Mrs. H. Groves, was in charge of Mrs. A. M. Gillan. Devotionals were conducted by Mrs. S. O. Lawrence after which Mrs. A. L. Wood sang "It's in The Constitution and It's There To Stay" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. D. McKisson. The song, "Battle Hymn of the Republic," was sung. Guests were Mrs. Sarah Henry, Mrs. L. J. Mitchell, Mrs. G. W. Shelhorn of Richwood and Miss Anna Mae Gillan. Mrs. A. M. Gillan and Mrs. A. H. Trout assisted as hostesses. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Finley Blow Feb. 8 at her home, Franklin-st.

FOUR WOMEN HOSTESSES TO LADIES' AID SOCIETY

Mrs. Watt Roberts received honors in a contest at a meeting of members of the Ladies' Aid Society, Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church, held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. A. A. Rueger. Mrs. Watt Roberts, Mrs. Walter Minshall and Mrs. John Mosher, hostesses at Mrs. Rueger's home, E. Church-st. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. R. F. Burrett, at her home, Chicago-av.

Silent watches of the night are those we forget to wind

Living WHITE HEAT Loving

WHEN woman is mistress of her ambition mankind is sure to be the richer for the fruits of her effort, the gifts of her genius.

For woman is then the lover of her work, not of herself.

Clear vision, firm hand, a heart that sings at its task—and woman creates. And in the perfection of her creation, be it something as intimate as happiness in the hearts of those whom she loves or, conversely, a song or statue or story for the wide world to know, she finds compensation for her labor.

When ambition masters the woman humanity at large profits little, those nearest and dearest her suffer infinite loss and woman herself is apt to be consumed in the fires of her own kindling.

Self gratification becomes the motif which urges on to action and the completed product in quality is almost certain to be inferior.

To sit in the seat of the mighty and be garbed in the trappings of fame—for personal pride and pomp and nothing more worthy have kingdoms been raised up and cast down. And it is the sort of ambition, whether temporarily in its purpose it succeeds or not, that exacts such terrific toll of whomsoever it possesses.

It wears away the spirit and heats at the soul; robs the days of their joy and the nights of their peaceful depths; enthrones and clothes discontent; festers about youth's neck a millstone and lends wings to age.

When such ambition has enslaved woman to sacrifice her heritage—home and love and friends, and unexpectedly, for very life, for its sake, it turns murder and suicide itself for what it really is, sheer vanity. When these women would renounce it. For these things are to whom true value it has long while deceived her it is also too late.

Ambition, honest ambition, is the prime factor in progress, the force that makes the wheels of the universe go round.

When self glorification and George are the fuel upon which ambition feed this ambition becomes a flame that a white heat consumes a while, illuminating itself out. Not out of the ashes phenix like does anything worth while arise to live on.

What then do we so greatly want? And why do we want it?

Before we commit ourself to too a drastic course of action it might be well truthfully to analyze the cause.

How to Build Healthy Flesh

Gives Added Strength, Too

If you are thin and skinny and the meals you eat do not put on proper weight, you are undernourished—the food you eat fails to build energy and muscle and health as it should.

Your system needs the right kind of digestive stimulant—one that will help you get the proper assimilation of health and the power to throw off colds and the strain of every day tasks.

A remarkable stimulant tonic has been devised for just such conditions as these. It is delightfully palatable and is prepared by an old Virginia chemist in business for nearly a quarter. Druggists and physicians have come to know this stimulant as "The Master Tonic." Get a bottle today at your druggist, take a small wine glass before your meals and how much better you eat, feel the glow of stimulated functions throughout the body. A few days' treatment will bring a quick change in run-down conditions and overcome lack of energy.

It came from the northeast, ... was such that before I ... ten feet it had twisted me ..., so that, instead of facing ... the wall, I had my back to it, hanging some forty feet above the courtyard, my face turned to the mountains, my body buffeted by the strong breeze. From where I hung, the sight was lovely. The lake of Geneva had been beaten into long rugged lines of white-capped waves, and the last rays of sunset were striking the topmost peaks of Mont Blanc and the Dome du Gouter.

I did not, however, give much attention to the beauties of the view, but twisted about so as to face the wall again, and start my descent. Suddenly, however, I felt myself going.

The rope had parted, and I fell like a plummet, my knee and one elbow striking the hard uneven surface of the wall.

It all took place so quickly that I had no time to realize what had happened, but the thought flashed into my head that all was over, when with a terrific splash I was suddenly submerged in water. Down I went till my lungs were bursting and it seemed an age before I shot back to the surface. I could see nothing at first. I appeared to be in pitch darkness, and in an unknown depth of water. Being a fair swimmer, I struck out vigorously, but a couple of strokes brought me hard against a stone wall. I turned on my back, and looking upwards realized what had happened.

I had fallen into a well!

My good fortune was here extraordinary, for the opening had been situated immediately beneath the window from which I had climbed, otherwise I should have been dashed to pieces on the stones of the courtyard. As it was, my plight was sufficiently desperate. It seemed a case of death deferred rather than avoided. The sides of the well, though not quite smooth, were round and offered very little in the way of footholds, and I must have been fifty or sixteen feet below the rim. I could see no broken or windless at my hand. To add to my miseries the water was very cold, though apparently fresh and clean.

I began to swim slowly round and round, in order to keep myself afloat, while, at the same time, I looked desperately for some means of escape. I had not swum more than a few strokes when I found myself entangled in the silken rope which had fallen with me into the water. Its coils clung to my body and impeded my movements. As I strove to get free of them, my hand struck against a piece of timber about three feet long. This I discovered to be nothing less than the leg and part of the back of the couch to which the rope had been attached. It had not, therefore, been the rope but the couch which had given way under my weight.

I had made more than one fruitless circuit of the well, when leaving out with my left leg, I failed to encounter the wall. This surprised me, as I had believed I touched it at every second or third stroke. I turned again on my back and felt the wall carefully. Then I noticed what had previously escaped my attention—an opening of some size situated just below the level of the water, apparently at right angles to the main shaft. I dropped my legs and began feeling for its lower edge. Presently I found it, though not before I had been compelled to sink right below the surface. It seemed that the lower edge of the hole was a little more than the height of a man from the top of the water, and I wondered whether it led anywhere or was merely a recess in the wall. My position in the well was sufficiently desperate to make it well worth while to find out. I decided to explore the passage, taking with me the rope, the couch as a possible weapon and the end of rope which might very probably be useful. The rope I coiled round my waist, treading the water as I did so, and the leg of the couch I tucked into the cuffs which I had thus improvised. It had evidently parted at the other end, for in itself it was quite long wood.

I then struck out away from the wall as powerfully as I could beneath the water, and, pulling myself "hand over hand" in it, groping with my feet. I soon felt the rough edges of the hole, and pulled myself in with my hands. With a bit of a struggle I was through.

I swam under water through what seemed an eternity. Now I had gone on feet. The passage was narrow. I found that I was unable to turn. I could not go back, as I had gone too far, and had to go on. I thought the end

With a general effort I raised my head and found, to my astonishment, that I was quite clear of the water. I could see no sky or branches, and in an unknown

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

WHEN are Marion's two great basketball teams going to meet? Wherever sport followers gather in the city and talk basketball are heard arguments as to the respective merits of the teams representing the Isaly Dairies and the Steam Shovel. A game between these two should determine which is the real champion of the city, and therefore eligible to rank as one of the best teams in the state. Isalies showed their worth last year by going through the state tournament with a clean slate. There is no doubt in the minds of local followers of the game as to the class of this outfit. But the Steam Shovel quintet also has shown considerable class this season. They have met some tough teams, and while they have not won all their games, have given a good account of themselves. Each game seems to see a better team on the floor. Their team work gets better as they go along. The season in Marion will not be complete without a meeting between these two teams.

TWO American six-day bike grinders, Reggie McNamara and Bobby Walthour, Jr., have tentatively signed up for the eighteenth International six-day race in Berlin Jan. 13-19. The race promises to break all records as far as class is concerned.

Among other entries are Wambst and Jacquehay, French stars, who won the last Berlin race in November, and Otto Petrly formerly of Berlin, who has been living in the United States for several years and who won the Chicago race several months ago. It is possible that McNamara will team up with either Walthour or Petri.

In addition, some of the best German cyclists, including Saldow, Lorenz, Pietz and Koch, have agreed to ride. Walthour, McNamara and Petri have been in Berlin for several weeks.

FAMOUS CAGERS TO CLASH WITH DAIRY QUINTET

Visitors Have Won Five Out of Six Games with Isalies

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

The Lions are coming!

They will arrive here Thursday night from Lorain for an attack on the Isaly Dairy quintet in the Star Auditorium. And they'll come roarin' in from the north ready for battle.

The famous Lorain Lions, who have defeated the Isaly team five out of six games in the last three years, promise to furnish the locals with the toughest opposition they have faced this year. The Lions have already defeated the Dairies once this year on their home floor and expect to repeat the act.

The Lions are members of the Central Basketball League and have practically the same team that appeared here last year, one of the snappiest organizations playing basketball in the state of Ohio.

Forwards are Pharis and Grendow, two of the fastest passers and floor men in the game. Steagel plays center and stars in his position. McNutt and Ross are guards.

Ross Great Guard

"Tay" Ross, demon guard, is probably the only colored lad now playing in the professional basketball world. It is not certain at the present time whether he is really with the club since the first of the season or whether he has been released from the team, according to rumors.

The Lions are playing at Kenton tonight where they will meet an all-Kenton lineup in the form of the Kenton Reds. The Reds will be composed of Kenton men rather than the usual Kinnear players so that little advance "dope" concerning the strength of the Lions will be available out of the result of that game.

Lorain Is Good

But little advance information is needed. Every basketball fan in the city knows of the Lorain Lions and knows that they are certain to furnish the thrills and excitement.

The Dairies have lost two home games this season but will be out for revenge Thursday night. The team has held a hot practice session since its defeat last Thursday at the hands of the Indiana Fries and is all set for the great battle Thursday night.

Dairies and the Lions have always been rivals and the rivalry this year has grown more bitter. The Dairies have managed to win only one out of six games with Lorain and are bound to stage a comeback sooner or later.

The regular Dairy team will start the game Thursday night. Penry, Techannen, Minard, Applegett and Miller will likely open the tray with Phillians, Robbins and Knubler breaking into the game before the final whistle blows.

Kanons Meet Howitzers

Kappa Alpha Phis will meet Howitzer Company cagers in the preliminary to the Lorain game. The two teams have met twice this season and have divided the honors, each winning a game. This will be a "rub" affair and promises plenty of action.

The preliminary will open at 7:15 and the main game will get under way at 8:15 o'clock.

JUNIORS PLAY HERE

Will Meet Junior Midgets Instead of Kirk, Friday

Central Junior High School cagers will play the Junior Midgets instead of Kirkpatrick High School as previously announced, Coach Gabler said today. Since Harding High is playing at Mansfield, it was decided to schedule a Junior High game at home.

The Juniors will meet the regular Midget team, Jan. 21, and will play the Galion High School Freshmen, Jan. 28.

JONES TO FIGHT

Youngstown, O., Jan. 11 Jimmy Jones, local welterweight, has been signed for two bouts, according to word received here today from Philadelphia from his manager, Al Zoll.

Next Monday night Jones meets Harry Martone, Brooklyn, in a ten-rounder at Philadelphia and a week later he is to go against Champion Pete Latzo in a ten-round bout in Pittsburgh. Jones and Latzo fought a twelve-round draw in Youngstown several years ago.

Movin' On

STEVE O'NEILL will catch more than half of the games for St. Louis Browns this season, it was said. This just four years after the Cleveland Indians decided he was through as a big league catcher.

O'Neill goes to the Browns from Toronto at the request of Dan Howley, Toronto manager, signed to boss the Browns.

O'Neill, a member of the famous O'Neill family of ballplayers, started baseball with the Minooka Boys, a Pennsylvania coal mining team, received his first professional with Elmira in the New York state league in 1910, was bought over by Athletics in 1911 and sold to Washington without having played a game, and was bought by Cleveland that same year.

STEVE O'NEILL

Caught almost half the games for Cleveland from 1917 to his departure except when Bill Wambsganss went West to Boston with Wambsganss for George Burns and Al Wambsganss in the winter of 1922. Sold to the Yanks at the waiver price in 1924, released a year ago and signed by Toronto.

ONE HUNDRED EXPECTED AT ANNUAL BANQUET

Special Program Arranged for Business Men's Moose Dinner

One hundred persons are expected at the annual moose dinner of the Business Men's Club, to be held tonight at the Y. M. C. A. Members of the Business Men's Club, their wives or sweethearts are invited.

Charles Doty will follow Lt. Howard Greathouse in forcing the ears of Epworth M. E. Leaves will serve the new.

Charles Isele and John Clark will be the main speakers for the occasion. Several musical numbers have been arranged including a girls' quartet.

The moose dinner will follow the championship bout between the rubber ball teams captained by Bill and Stub, who are at present tied for first place in the Business Men's League. Wilson and Powell will stage battle for fourth place in the league standing tonight.

MARION NOT YET ENTERED IN SHORT SHIP CIRCUIT

Open Date Pending, However, Following Cleveland Meeting

Marion did not enter the Ohio Short Ship Circuit this year, according to sports from the meeting of the officials of that organization at Cleveland yesterday, when the schedule for the season was drawn up.

The date competing the week of July 18, however, was left open and Marion may again enter the circuit. Local race fans have not yet voiced their opinions on the subject. Following is the schedule for the Short Ship Circuit as arranged at Cleveland yesterday:

Week of May 30, Norwalk; week of June 6, Euclid Park, Columbus; week of June 13, open; week of June 20, Mansfield; week of June 27, Canton; week of July 4, Fremont; week of July 11, Toledo; week of July 18, open; week of July 25, Kalamazoo grand circuit; week of Aug. 1, open; week of Aug. 6 and 18, North Randall, grand circuit.

TENTATIVE DATE SET FOR NEXT DEMPSEY BOUT

Opponent on May 26 Will Be Any One of Five Men

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Jan. 12—Jack Dempsey's ruptured comeback—if, when or at all—has been set tentatively by Tex Rickard for the night of Thursday, May 26, at the Yankee Stadium, according to dopesters who claim to have been outlined by the promoter in a long distance conversation with Dempsey two days ago.

Dempsey's opponent will be anyone of five men—Jack Sharkey, Jimmy Maloney, Jack Delaney, Paulino or Paul Berlenbach—and the winner will qualify without further question for the Ohio bout with Gene Tunney in September.

No definite date will be named for the Dempsey match until two factors are determined. They are, listed in the order of their importance, the question of whether Dempsey will fight at all, and the approximate location of the New York Yankees on the day in question. The latter will be determined by the official American League schedule to be drafted in February.

Not Later Than June

However, Dempsey's presumed reappearance under colors will not take place later than the first week in June, since Rickard is under contract to Tunney to name the latter's challenger on June 15. Richard expects to know what is or is not afoot by that time—whether or not Dempsey's plan to challenge for the title is a lot of soup meat; the real intentions of Jack Delaney about playing with the other inmates and, if so whether he really belongs in the first place; and the respective capabilities of Sharkey, Maloney, Paulino, Berlenbach and sundry challengers, alleged and otherwise.

Richard will know the worst about Paulino when the Spaniard returns from Cuba to meet Knute Hanson, a match that has been arranged with the tacit Canvas Owl. Knute doesn't choose the newest exit and run, not walk. The Swede is supposed to be a fistic square-shooter, but you have to watch him first.

Assuming that Paulino survives this awful carnage, the next step will be a match with either Maloney or Sharkey in February. Maloney generally is considered to be favored for the shot with Sharkey to be held in reserve for a tilt with the winner in March.

Can't Ignore Delaney

This series will bring the situation pretty well up to date, only Delaney and Berlenbach being unaccounted for. However, they will get some action somewhere, provided Delaney begins to play smart and joins the line of forming on the left. He probably will be instigated in the scheme of things for Quebec if the latter looks the part of a worthy opponent for the shot with Sharkey. As for the strength of Jack Delaney, no one can not be ignored by any man who wants to develop the ultimate and final challenger.

Offhand, the writer would pick Delaney as the Dillon for Dempsey at the Yankee Stadium match. My impression is and has been that the chance-to will turn up very absent when the bowdoin comes.

TO PLAY TIFFIN

Steam Shovel Valley Volley Team To Take Trip

The Marion Steam Shovel representative volleyball team, which defeated the Marion Overlands in two games here Monday night, will journey to Tiffin next Wednesday for a game with the Tiffin Y. M. C. A. team, it was announced today.

The Shovel team is composed of White, Corfman, Powell, Lasbey, Fabian, Thomas and Cleveland.

RESERVE MEETS B-W

With a slightly shifted lineup the Western Reserve university basketball team plays its second Ohio conference game of the season tonight, meeting Baldwin Wallace at Reserve gym. Reserve has two games this week, Wooster coming to Cleveland Saturday.

The Sports Hall of Fame

Nominating LEFTY GEORGE

Because, at the age of 41, he is still pitching baseball. This after over 20 years on the mound.

Because his failure to stick in the big show after four trials failed to discourage him or force him from the game.

Because he quit the game once, in 1922, announced his retirement in March and signed up again in April with the York club of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

Because, in the last four campaigns, his pitching helped the York club win one flag and finish second the other three seasons.

Because, in 1924 he hung up a new minor league record by pitching 40 consecutive scoreless innings and scored 17 straight victories while doing it.

Because, for four consecutive years he has led his league in the number of shutouts games pitched.

And because he's "right" in so another season with the same outfit.

ACES PLAY KAPPAS

Will Clash with Fraternity Five Tonight

East Side Aces will clash with Kappa Alpha Phis on the Y. M. C. A. court, tonight. Manager George Pendon announced today. It will be the first meeting of the two teams this season.

The Kappas have developed into one of the best teams in Marion and will give the Aces a real battle. The Aces will line up with Arndt and Scherr, forwards; Dick Pendon, center, and Sargent and Gemlich, guards. Bob Yazel, Lingo and Fetter will also probably get into the game.

WOOSTER PLAYS RESERVE

Wooster, O., Jan. 11 The Wooster college basketball team, which plays Reserve at Cleveland Saturday, will have two Cleveland boys in the line-up. Ivan Anderson, Wooster's six foot, four inch center, is from Shaw High, and Bill Olson, guard, is a former member of the Glenville High basketball team.

BRADLEYS HOLD FIRST PLACE IN NATIONAL LOOP

Lose Two Games, However, To Jim Dugan's Bowlers

Bradley Drugs barely held their place in the leading position of the National League last night when they won only one game from Dugans after the Mutuals had won three contests from Smart & Waddell Monday night. Mutuals are now only one game behind Bradley's and are rolling more consistently.

Marion Bricks upset the dope bucket last night and crashed through with a couple of victories over the Maple Motorcycles, coming within one game of tying Smart & Waddell for second position.

Kopp and Warrick were largely responsible for Bradley's victory in the second tilt last night. Kopp rolled 235 points and Warrick counted 221 in that game. Kopp's mark was high for the Drugs. Shrigley's 228 mark for Dugans last night in the third game is the record bowling for a National League game this season. Shriver's total was 620 points.

Zeisler led the Motorcycles with 203 points in one game last night while Williams was high scorer for the Bricks with 190 pins. Motorcycles won the first game but were unable to connect in the final two tilts.

Trinity Baptists Trounce Calvary for Fourth Win; Brethern Trims Epworths

Presbyterians Sink Lower When Lutherans Hand Them Walloping; Baptists Have Full Control of Intermediate Sunday School League Lead

Trinity Baptists made it four straight victories last night in the Intermediate Sunday School League when they romped all over the Calvary Evangelical team, defeating that outfit 25 to 10.

United Brethren kept on the heels of the leaders by defeating the Epworth M. E. crew in a fast game, winning 18 to 16. First Presbyterians sank lower into the depths of the league cellar when they took a 12 to 8 drubbing administered by the Trinity Lutherans.

Merchant led his teammates to victory when the Baptists took their fourth consecutive game last night. He was credited with two field goals. Rhinehart got three. Peacock managed to come through with three free throws and a field goal for the Presbyterians.

Tuttle scored four field goals for the United Brethren while defeating Epworth M. E. and Fetter did his best to break up the Brethren attack with four field goals and a couple of free throws for the Epworths.

Little scoring was featured in the Lutheran-Presbyterian fray and what was marked up was divided among various players of the teams.

Fred Techanen referred the contests.

MIDGETS DEFEAT KAPPA ALPHA PHI FIVE, 21-25

Overcome Lead and Display Brilliant Pass Offence in Close Game

Using an effective short pass offense that bewildered the Kappa Alpha Phi defense, the Marion Midgets last night overcame a seven-point lead and rolled up enough additional counters to win their battle on the Star Auditorium court, 21 to 15.

The game was featured by the excellent team work on the part of the Midgets. Every player contributed to the team score and one was high point man with two field goals. The Midget defense was also superior to that of the Kappas.

There were no individual stars on the Midget quintet while Snyder at one time was the point man on the Kappa floor machine. He scored five field goals.

BETTER GALION CLUB TO CHANGE CONSTITUTION

Members Decide By-Laws Will Have To Be Changed To Preserve Principles

Galion, Jan. 12—The constitution and by-laws of the Better Galion Club will undergo some changes as a result of the club meeting last night. The members unanimously decided that to preserve certain principles of the club the active methods of work done in the city, would have to be modified. Accordingly a committee consisting of Peter Butterfield, Roy Flowers and Frank Thomas, was appointed to revise the constitution and present the newly written document for approval at the special meeting which will be held next Tuesday night.

Directors were appointed and chose J. C. Guinther, director and C. A. Beener, secretary-treasurer.

The retiring officers George Gelsmiter, president and Sherman Herr, secretary-treasurer who organized the club and served as leaders during the two years of its successful operation were given votes of thanks by the members.

The C. K. of O. will install 1927 officers Jan. 13.

BUCYRUS GETS LESS THAN HALF 1927 BUDGET

City Officials Forced To Spread $80,000 in "Thin Layers" on Various Funds

Bucyrus, Jan. 12—City council met in called session Tuesday night at the city hall to discuss appropriations for this year. Auditor Constance Keller, Clerk August Breetel and Mayor Arthur Schuler have been working for the last week in getting all the details in shape so that they could be presented at this hearing.

Monday a certified statement for the sum of $110,000 was sent by County Auditor Charles Fry for the use of the city. When this was received by Miss Keller, $26,000 of the amount was banked in payment of the sinking fund including the debt and interest. The remaining sum of $80,000 is not half the amount of the 1927 budget which is estimated at $121,767.50. To spread this money in thin layers over the general expenses and for the usual funds which need immediate attention has been "a delicate operation".

Reappraisal Incomplete

The recent reappraisal of the city and county which has not been completed is the cause of the lack of funds derived from the taxes. Auditor Fry is not certain when the balance of the stipulated sum can be given to the city treasury. A cut in many of the funds, even to the salaries of the officials, was necessary. However, later an expected surplus appropriation from the county will supplement the $110,000 and materially relieve the financial embarassment.

Mayor Schuler announced Tuesday that the officials were pleased to state that the amount spent in 1926 which was $161,748.86 was more than the proposed budget for 1927, $124,767.50 making a difference of $36,981.36. The actual expenses for 1926 were less than the estimated budget so that it is reasonably certain that the 1927 expenses will be less than the proposed budget.

The proposed budget for 1927 includes the following: general fund, $40,035.00; relief of poor, $20,895.00; public health, $1,160.00; public service, $57,705.00; library, $3,020.00; sinking fund, $19,952.50.

OHIO WESLEYAN MAN TO MAKE BUCYRUS ADDRESS

Many Central Ohio Pastors Hear Bishop Henderson of Cincinnati

Bucyrus, Jan. 12—Ministers and laymen from Shelby, Crestline, Galion, Marion, Nevada, and other surrounding towns and cities were present at the all day meeting Tuesday at the First Methodist Church when Bishop Theodore Henderson of Cincinnati carried on a seminar on "Evangelism." Luncheon and dinner with honorary hosts of the church, the official board were well-attended and the serving was done by the women of the parish.

Tuesday night was official board night for all the Protestant denominations in the city. One hundred officers of the various churches were host to guests. Bishop Henderson spoke on the theme of the day, continuing his plans and ideals of the laymen's part in winning people for the church. The service was closed in a most impressive manner, every man in the church kneeling at the altar for consecration. Rev. J. W. Dowds, Rev. L. J. Wolfer and Rev. Roy Bowers were also on the program. The Methodist quartet with Miss Ruth Henderson, soloist, presented a Saint-saens number. About 500 in attendance.

Tonight at the same church Prof. J. T. Marshmen of Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, will talk, his topic is "Men."

Flock of Sheep and Icy Highway Cause Auto Wreck

An icy pavement and a flock of sheep were responsible for an auto accident which occurred on the Galion-Bucyrus road yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Dr. M. L. Helfrich of Galion, driving to Bucyrus in his Buick coupe, and William A. Rice of Columbus, bound for Galion, skidded into each other and seriously damaged both cars, also injuring Rice who was found unconscious in the wreckage. Dr. Helfrich rushed the injured man to the Good Samaritan Hospital where it was discovered that he was suffering from concussion of the brain.

A farm boy leading a flock of sheep across the road caused the accident. Both drivers attempted to slacken speed and as a result skidded, until both cars had turned completely around.

STROKE OF PARALYSIS TAKES HARDIN PIONEER

Funeral Services for Mrs. Irene Voegel, 81, To Be Held Thursday

Kenton, Jan. 12—A stroke of paralysis suffered six days ago, caused the death Tuesday of Mrs. Irene Voegel, 81, pioneer resident of Hardin County, at her late home in Dunkirk.

Living alone in her home, the aged woman was found lying unconscious on the floor by a neighbor girl who had called to run an errand for her. It is believed she was stricken several hours before. She never regained consciousness.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon in charge of Rev. Pelton, pastor of the Dunkirk United Brethren church.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS GALION P-T-A BRANCH

East School Sixth Graders Win Prize for Fifth Consecutive Time

Galion, Jan. 12—The regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the East School was held last night at the school building with a record crowd of 250 present. Mrs. Fred Lauderdale, president of the organization presided and called for the annual reports of the various committees, which proved that the year just passed has been the most successful in the history of the society.

Both attendance awards, a book for having the largest number of points and a banner for the most fathers represented, were presented to Mr. Stover's sixth grade. This is the fifth consecutive time that the sixth graders have been awarded the prize.

Community singing featured the program and Franklin Crum, high school senior, favored with several vocal numbers accompanied by Miss Edna Fultz. Following the program refreshments were served by a committee and the recently constructed basketball court inspected. Realizing the need of a more extensive athletic program the association decided to equip a basketball court and a playground where under proper supervision the children might spend their spare time needing in beneficial exercise. The court has been in use since the opening of the second semester and the benefits of the project are already noticeable.

MRS. MELISSA HAWLEY IS DEAD AT MARYSVILLE

Funeral Services Will Be Held Thursday Afternoon at Late Home

Marysville, Jan. 12—Mrs. Melissa Hawley, 80, one of the oldest and best known citizens of Marysville, died at her home here early Tuesday morning. Death was caused by a stroke of paralysis which she sustained about a week ago.

Mrs. Hawley was the daughter of the late Edward and Philadelphia Weller, and was born near Milford Center on June 4, 1847. She was one of a family of eight children of whom only one, a brother, John Weller of Dover Township, survives.

She was married to G. D. Hawley in 1862 and to this union two children were born. Mr. Hawley died last April. Surviving are one son Arthur Hawley, of Dover Township, and one daughter, Mrs. Nettie Henderson of Marysville, and eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the residence in this city, conducted by Rev. H. C. Couch, pastor of the Congregational Church. Burial will be in Oakdale Cemetery.

THREE MARION HUNTERS ARE GIVEN HEARINGS

Charged with Trespassing and Hunting Out of Season; Appear in Mt. Gilead

Mt. Gilead, Jan. 12—Three Marion hunters, Paul Jones, George Orr and Ray Breidenbaugh who were brought before Mayor Kaufman for trespassing, hunting pheasants out of season and other misdemeanors a week ago were arraigned before Mayor Kaufman Monday afternoon. The trio was represented by Attorney W. P. Moloney, of Marion. Jones and Orr were found guilty of killing pheasants out of season and all three were found guilty of trespassing on the premises of Fred Dunbaugh and Amzey Boyer. The trespassing charges were dismissed but a fine which ranges from $25 to $200 awaits the pheasant shooters. Mayor Kaufman has not named the fine pending the return of the written testimony.

M'GUFFEY OIL CONCERN SOLD TO SCHMIDT CO.

Purchase Includes Franchise, Pipe Lines and Properties at Alger

Kenton, Jan. 12—The property of the McGuffey Oil & Gas Co. has been sold at receiver's sale, to the H. E. Schmidt Co. of Roundhead, according to announcements made here. Attorney Paul T. Mahon, Kenton was receiver.

The purchase includes the franchises, pipelines and properties of the McGuffey company in both Alger and McGuffey. The new owners plan to operate their new acquisitions in connection with the Roundhead plant with its main offices in the latter place.

Gas for the two Ohio towns will be supplied from the same wells owned and leased by the company in the Roundhead oil and gas fields, south of here.

Jerry Miley, manager of the Roundhead office for several years, will actively take charge of all three locations.

The latest well in the Roundhead oil field was shot by the H. E. Schmidt company, and is making a fine showing of oil. After the shot the hole filled up with about 200 feet of oil. It is known as hole No. 2 on the Earl Hites lease.

Wells are going down on the Ira Sebick farm and on the Zimmerman farm in that territory.

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

... going to get to be sum- ... would get a move on; ... bath. In vacation there ... and snakes and mud- ... of things a fella likes ... girls with, and win- ... but snow and ice ... those are things a fella ... a while.

... Jubilee down and ... the yard with the milk ... pig hot and told him ... the barn, because he ... learning to do things, ... and run over in the ... where the deep snow ... around and looked at ... called him he shook ... and thought I wanted ... a quick run to grab ... broke through with ... I could get up he jump- ... we had a wrassle, but ... and my clothes were all ... so he was so happy he ... head off so I couldn't ... A dog has not got ... he don't have to milk ... save up money to ... to give away, so Le ... way to school it rain- ... a slow, cold, drizzle that freezes in the trees where the wind hits it but don't do anything but make slush on the ground and that soaks into a fella's clothes like they were blotting paper, and I wasn't any too dry, because the snow I got inside of my clothes when I wrassled with Jubilee had melted, and the gutter was full of snow and water when we come away from Yeamsses house with her and Freida, and there was ice on the bridge across the gutter, and the Lost Bag of Tripe was standing there wait- ... for us and trying to think up something mean, and just as he was going to walk along ahead of us Freida said: "I know of a way one of the boys can get to stay out of school to- day. Who wants to stay out?" And we all hollered "I," and by that time she was crossing the bridge and she said: "The Lost Bag of Tripe said it first. Do you really want to stay out?" and he said: "Sure. How can I?" Then she gave his feet a quick push with her foot and said, "Tell your mother you're all wet," and then he was setting in the gutter, but he swung one of his hands around and caught her ankle before she could skin out, and there she was setting by him. We kept hollering "You're all wet," till they were out of sight. I went to bed early.

... Wiggily put his paw down in ... candy jar and he was just going ... filled with good things ... a sudden Tooter said:

... I'll take gum drops in- ... beans!"

... I'll take the jelly beans," said ... no, I guess I'd better have ...

... here!" said Uncle Wiggily ... laugh. "Make up your minds, ... you want, I can't keep ... the candy jar all day. Which ... jelly beans or gum drops?"

... Sooter and Tooter could ... even make up their minds ... they wanted (for both candies ... with all of a quickness the ... sneaked into the bungalow ... you get your paw stuck ... jar?" asked the Fox of ... "Take it out at once ... me!"

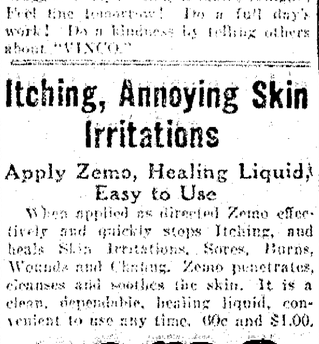
... Don't you do it!"

... Fox some gum drops and ... maybe he'll go away!" ...

... thing of the sort!" cried ... "I'll give him the jar—I'll do! Raising his paw in- ... jar, and also lifting up ... was heavy, like a flower pot, Uncle Wiggily brought it down for smacko, if you will excuse me saying so.

Right down on the head of the Fox cracked the candy jar and it made the bad chap so silly that he smiled in a sickly way and said:

"Oh, how funny I feel. I guess I'll go see my doctor!" And away he snaped. Of course the candy jar was broken when the bunny hit the Fox with it



Uncle Wiggily brought it down for-smacko!

But Tooter and Sooter soon picked up the jelly beans and gum drops, keeping a few for themselves. And then Nurse Jane found a new candy jar, so everything was all right except the Fox. And if the bobtailed kitten sing the coffee pot to sleep when they go to bed on top of the gas stove, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Gazie's ice cream.

Putting Our Thanks Into Our Service

THIS bank could not get along without the friendship and patronage of faithful depositors like yourself.

And we like to feel that it is just as true the other way—that you could not get along nearly so well financially but for the service which we are trying to render you.

We intend to miss no opportunity to tell you of our sincere appreciation. But our real thanks for your loyalty we are going to put into the service itself, to make it constantly better, broader and more helpful.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Steady prices for practically the entire retail market continued today, none of the staple or fancy products showing any change in price. Supplies of all products are keeping pace with demand and holding prices on a level.

In the meat lines the market has been the same for sometime. Poultry has kept the same price level since the holidays and will continue to hold its own until spring opens. Dressed chickens are now selling for 35 cents a pound, and only enough are being handled to keep markets supplied for the regular trade.

According to reports from wholesale markets in other cities pineapples are coming into the market now, and some may be seen on local markets soon.

Fresh eggs are selling at 45 cents a dozen retail now, and this price will likely continue for sometime. This price is low for the season, eggs generally selling at higher prices during this month. The price will increase during the next month or two, it is said.

LEGISLATURE GETS 30 BILLS BEFORE RECESS

Both Houses Convene Again Next Week; Many Bills To Consider

Columbus, Jan. 12—With the senate in recess until Monday, the house held a brief session this morning and adjourned until next week.

More than 30 bills and resolutions were dumped into the senate and house hoppers late Tuesday. The most important proposals include:

By Senator George H. Bender, Cleveland, and Noble P. Johnson, Youngstown, making it unlawful for justices of the peace and village mayors to issue their respective bailwarks; by Senator Paul M. Herbert, Columbus, proposing a college entrance board to examine students attending Ohio's three state universities and two normal schools; by Representative John A. Madden, Cleveland, proposing a state constitutional amendment providing for consolidation of townships, municipal and county governments in counties having more than 400,000 population; by Senator L. E. Marshall and Representative Fred Meyers, both of Lucas County, proposing a state constitutional amendment providing for assessing one hundred per cent of the cost of public improvements in cities against benefited property; present rate is 50 per cent; by Senator John S. Edwards, Licking, proposing a four per cent excise tax on the gross earnings of motor transportation companies; by Senator Roy J. Gillen, Wellston, abolishing school districts in areas where tax duplicate is less than $1,000,000.

In some parts of England there is a superstition that it is unlucky to take holly into the house before Christmas.

Adoption degree was conferred upon two candidates last night at the regular meeting of the Red Men's Lodge. A large number of members were present and regular business session was held. The Warrior degree will be conferred upon these candidates at the next regular meeting, next Tuesday.

FLETCHER TERMED SHRINKING VIOLET

Congressman Brooks Fletcher, Marion, is the shrinking violet of the Ohio Congressional delegation according to Washington news reporters. The basis for this classification is found in the Congressional Directory, containing the autobiographies of the statesmen.

While other representatives' contributions to the directory are of varying length Congressman Fletcher has this to say about himself:

"Brooks Fletcher, Democrat; newspaper man; Marion, O."

WILBUR DILLEN FINED ON DISORDERLY CHARGE

Blackjack Found in Man's Possession Is Confiscated by Officers

Wilbur Dillen, 26, of 711 Fairfield-st, arrested last night at Silver and Seventh-sts on a disorderly conduct charge, pleaded guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge Mattox, this morning, and was fined $25 and costs. Dillen created a disturbance, police say, while engaged in an argument with another man on Silver-st.

A blackjack was found in Dillen's possession when he was searched at police headquarters and for a time he faced the possibility of being accused of carrying concealed weapons. He explained that he had armed himself with the weapon in anticipation of an attack by a man who had threatened him.

Police confiscated the blackjack and Dillon was placed in the city prison to await settlement of his fine.

JACOB FINDLING, FORMER MARION RESIDENT, DIES

Victim of Infirmities in Detroit, Body To Be Brought Here

Henry Findling, west of the city, is in Detroit where he was called due to the serious illness and death of his father, Jacob Findling, formerly of this city. Death was due to infirmities of age.

The body will be brought here Thursday afternoon and be removed to the home of Henry Findling, west of the city, where funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Burial will be made in Marion Cemetery.

Mr. Findling was born in Baden, Germany, April 30, 1836, and located in this city in April, 1864. He remained here until 1902 at which time he left for Detroit where he made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Charles Amman.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Samuel Sharrock, E. Church-st; Mrs. George W. Loveridge, Grove Point, Mich.; Mrs. Charles Amman, Detroit; and Mrs. Catherine Severance, Detroit; six sons, Henry Findling, west of the city; Emmet Findling, Oak Grove-av; Oscar Findling, Detroit; William Findling, Ludington, Mich.; George J. Findling, Detroit; and Edwin H. Findling, Detroit; 10 grandchildren and six great grandchildren. His wife and one son preceded him in death.

PERMIT IS ISSUED FOR $10,000 STRUCTURE HERE

C. K. Harris Gets Grant To Build Store and Apartment Building

A permit was issued from the office of the City Clerk, today, to C. K. Harris for construction of a two-story building at Baker and Center-sts at an estimated cost of $10,000. The building, which will include a store-room on Center-st and residence apartments on the second floor, will be of frame with a brick front.

Plans for this building were held up for several weeks as the result of Mr. Harris having originally been refused a permit by the City Planning Commission. This obstacle was removed Monday night when City Council, acting on recommendation of the Commission, extended the city's commercial district on E. Center-st to take in the Baker-st corner.

When Winter Comes

Good Elimination Is Essential

HABITS of life change with the changing seasons. Winter brings us more indoors; we are apt to get less fresh air and exercise, to eat heavier food and to be less active generally. These winter-time habits impose heavier burdens upon our hard-working kidneys.

Sluggish kidney function permits retention of poisonous waste in the blood and makes one an easier victim of winter's colds and chills. Presence of these unfiltered toxins makes itself felt in many unpleasant ways. One is apt to feel tired, achy and listless—to have drowsy headaches, dizziness and perhaps a dull, "toxic" backache. That the kidneys are not functioning as they should is often shown by scanty or burning secretions.

At such times the use of a stimulant diuretic* to the kidneys is indicated. Doan's Pills act on the kidneys only. Grateful users the country over recommend them. Ask your neighbor!

FAIR DEAL FOR CHILDREN OF AMERICA URGED

Supreme Lecturer of Loyal Order of Moose Speaks at Kenton

Kenton, Jan. 12—A plea for the fulfilment of every one's birthright, "a fair deal for the children of America," was sounded by Frank R. Lutz, Wapakoneta, supreme lecturer of the Loyal Order of Moose, in addressing the Chamber of Commerce here Tuesday.

Every child deserves equal chance, said Mr. Lutz, and should be provided religious, educational and physical training building for the worthy children. Fulfilment of this birthright is one of the underlying principles of Moosedom.

Judge C. W. Barnett, Pittsburgh, another supreme Moose officer, also spoke before the business club telling of the work being done at Mooseheart and Moosehaven, Ill., in caring for the boys and girls of Moose lodgemen and the members of the fraternal group in their old age. "The prime objects of the order," he said, "is the conservation and uplift of the youth and service to the community."

Tuesday night the supreme lodge officers addressed the rally and initiation of the Kenton Moose lodge, attended by lodgemen from many chapters in Northwestern Ohio. Preceding the conferring of degrees upon a large class, a banquet dinner was served in charge of Allan D. Cole, lodge dictator, and George H. Lingrel, secretary. The Findlay degree team conducted the initiation.

The Kenton lodge at the present time has more than 500 members enrolled, the majority of them residing in the rural districts over the county.

ADDISON BAIN, JUDGE M'NEAL PRESENT TALKS

Address Classes at Central Junior High School; Club Day Features

The Science and Nature Study Club at Central Junior High School this morning heard Addison Bain talk on bird lore, and the Citizenship Club heard Judge L. B. McNeal, judge of the juvenile and probate court, talk on juvenile work. Both talks were part of the program of club day features at Central Junior High School.

Judge McNeal took up cases which have come before him in the juvenile action of his court, and told how the boys and girls came to get in trouble, how their cases were handled, and explained the working of suspended sentences and paroles. At another time Judge McNeal is to be invited to speak before the Citizenship Club on the probate division of the court, and explain the handling of the many details in this work.

Talks on Birds

Addison Bain, who has been a student of birds and their habits all his life, told many interesting things he has observed of the bird inhabitants of Ohio. He related many incidents pertaining to birds, which he has observed, and which have come to him from other bird lovers, during his study of birds.

Mr. Bain said that Ohio is especially blessed by nature with a great supply of many kinds of birds. In his travels throughout the country he has found few sections so well supplied with birds of every description, he said. He told many of the peculiarities of birds, of their nesting and migratory habits.

The activities which led to the organization of the Audubon Society in Ohio, a branch of the national organization of that name, was discussed by Mr. Bain. This society was organized in Toledo, and he had an active part in its work. The noted naturalist, John J. Audubon founded the society, and his works are still the greatest source of information about birds.

Cat also came in for discussion by Mr. Bain. He said that fully 50 per cent of our song birds are killed each year by the common alley cat, which not only kills the mother birds, but waits for the young to leave the nest and kills them. He commended the idea of providing birds by the erection of birds houses protected from cats.

HEARING JAN. 14

Protest On Increased Phone Rates To Be Heard

Kenton, Jan. 12—Hearing of the protest filed by the City of Kenton against the increased rate schedule proposed by the Kenton Telephone Co. for the "private wire" is scheduled to come before the state public utilities commission in Columbus, Jan. 14.

Under the new schedule, should it be granted, rates for telephone service in practically every department, would be materially increased.

With the filing of the schedule in the state commission, Kenton city council immediately entered protest charging that the rates were exhorbitant and not justifiable.

EXPECT REPORT OF GRAND JURY BEFORE NIGHT

Annual Inspection of County Jail Is Conducted; Other Items of Court

The report of the January grand jury was expected to be given late this afternoon, County Prosecutor Frank Wiedemann said this morning that the report would be presented to Judge George B. Seofield before the session closed this afternoon.

The grand jury went through the county jail Tuesday afternoon on an inquisitorial inspection trip, which is part of every session of that body.

Answers Wife

Cross petition of James Redman who has been sued for divorce by his wife, Nellie Redman, has been filed charging her with gross neglect, and asking that the care of their children be given to him. Mrs. Redman, in her petition, charged him with cruelty, alleging that he forced her to leave their home, and failed to provide for her and the child.

Redman charges his wife with abandoning him and refuses to take care of their home and children. The couple was married July 22, 1920.

Asks Divorce

Suit for divorce has been filed by Alva R. Tennis against Eva M. Tennis, charging her with gross neglect. He claims that she made it "unbearable for him" in their home, and failed to take care of their home and children in a proper way. They were married August 2, 1906, and have two children.

Tennis asks that the court award the custody of the children to whichever it is felt will be able to care for them in the best way.

Resumes Work

County Auditor B. C. Decker was at his desk again today, with his left arm in a sling. Decker suffered a fracture of the wrist last Friday night when he slipped on the icy pavement when he alighted from a street car on E. Center-st, and fell on his left wrist. The wrist was also dislocated in the fall.

Asks New Trial

Motion for a new trial has been filed in the divorce suit of Verna P. Laucher against Edward Laucher, in which a divorce was denied the plaintiff by Judge George B. Seofield in a decision recently.

The entry in the case shows that Laucher is ordered to pay $40 a month for the support of the children, who are to be in Mrs. Laucher's custody during the school year. From the close of school until the opening in the fall the children are to be in the custody of their father.

The motion for a new trial will not be ruled for hearing at once, Judge Seofield said, to give the plaintiff an opportunity to file a bill of exceptions.

CHARLIE WILL FIGHT LITA AT "EVERY STEP"

Wife's Charges "Piffle," Says Chaplin's Attorney. Battle for Millions Opens Monday

Los Angeles, Jan. 12—Every step of the divorce suit filed by Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin against Charlie Chaplin will be bitterly fought, Lloyd Wright the defendant's attorney, declared today.

His statement followed an announcement by Young & Young, counsel for Mrs. Chaplin, that the court may appoint a receiver despite Chaplin's absence and before he actually has been served with the papers.

Chaplin's lawyer was in a fighting mood.

"All I can say right now, of course, is that I'll fight the case to the bitter end," he said. "This means contesting every step of the plaintiff. Although I have not examined the complaint thoroughly, it appears to me on the surface to be composed mainly of piffle."

Quick Action Sought

Lyndol Young, chief of the opposing legal forces, was just as determined.

"We expect to press for quick action," he asserted. "There will be no long, drawn out legal delays if we can prevent. The question of appointment of a receiver for the community property will be a fitting preliminary skirmish to the real battle to follow."

A bitter contest for custody of the two Chaplin babies loomed today.

Chaplin, it was learned, would agree to a "reasonable" property settlement, but he wanted his children where he could see them at all times.

Mrs. Chaplin however, immediately countered with the statement that she desires to undertake the responsibility of raising her children and that she is a "fit person to do it."

Mrs. Chaplin asked that a restraining order be issued to prevent her husband disposing of any of his property. This order was granted by the court yesterday. She also requested a receiver be named to take charge of the community property pending outcome of the suit. Presiding Judge Wood, who issued the restraining order, also ruled Chaplin must show cause why the receiver should not be appointed. A hearing on this question will be held at 10 a. m. next Monday. Property estimated variously at from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 is involved.

On Way East

Chaplin is en route to New York on important business, according to his attorney, who refused to give the date he is due to arrive there. It is reported, however, the film magnate will be here Sunday or Monday.

Friends of the comedian predict that when his present legal tangle is over another sensation. They say Chaplin has no license to be a bachelor much longer and may dispose of properties for a settlement out of court.
